BOY CONFESSES DOUBLE MURDER

Deaths of Two in California Cleared in Voluntary Admission

Auburn, Calif., Aug. 22—(AP)—The mysterious disappearance of James C. Kennett, Sr., retired Chicago contractor, and the death of an unidentified red-headed youth were confessed as slayings by Earl Cramer, Sheriff Elmer Gum announced today.

The 21-year-old itinerant prospector, who was arrested in a hunt for cattle thieves, voluntarily made the confessions. Gum said, and gave the location of an abandoned mine shaft where he said he hid the body of Kennett.

Gum quoted Cramer as saying he shot Kennett last June in a quarrel over food at the abandoned mining camp where the Chicagoan had gone in search of health.

The red-headed youth, whose body was found several days ago in another abandoned mine shaft of the famous Emigrant Gap mining area northeast of here, was killed in a dispute over the rifle used to slay Kennett, Gum said. Cramer told him. This slaying occurred several days after the death of Kennett.

MAY IDENTIFY "RED."

Chicago, Aug. 22—(AP)—Mrs. James G. Kennett, Sr., today gave California police another clue in the double slaying of her divorced husband and a youth identified only as "Red."

Possibility that the youth, whose body was found in an abandoned gold mine at Auburn, Calif., may have been a Quincy, Ill. boy, was raised in a letter Mrs. Kennett said she received from Mrs. Earl Wamsley, of Quincy.

The letter said Mrs. Wamsley's nephew disappeared April 2, 1935, after leaving Long Beach, Calif. His description tallied, Mrs. Kennett said, with that of the dead youth.

MAY BE QUINCY BOY.

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 22—(AP)—Mrs. Earl Wamsley said today the body of a youth found slain in an abandoned gold mine at Auburn, Calif., may be that of her missing nephew, Raymond Leo McCubbin, of this city.

Her description of her kinsman tallied with that given for one of two victims of a double slaying on the west coast. The other victim was James C. Kennett, Sr., retired Chicago contractor.

McCubbin, 21 years old, spent two years in the U. S. Navy before disappearing recently, Mrs. Wamsley said. His mother, Mrs. Henry A. Carder, of Quincy, last heard from him in a letter mailed from Long Beach, Calif., on April 2, in which he said he was beginning a three-day leave of absence.

The mother later was advised by navy officials that her son had not returned for duty.

Mrs. Wamsley in a letter to Kennett's divorced wife, asked her aid in establishing the identity of the youthful victim.

THRONGS HONOR POST

Oklahoma City, Aug. 22—(AP)—Oklahoma today paused to bury one famous son and to mourn another.

The body of Wiley Post lay in the rotunda on the second floor of the Capitol building, in view of jam-packed crowds that stood about the circular openings on the floors above.

Three airplanes trailing mourning banners flew over the Capitol building.

From 10 A. M., on a line of persons representing all parts of the state filed rapidly past the bronze casket.

In the silence struck in memory of Oklahoma's first citizen of the air, there was sorrow, too, for Will Rogers, the humorist and actor who never left the world for his Oklahoma rearing.

More than 15,000 persons at the Capitol building, where the bronze casket lay in state two hours, became almost unmanageable as the time arrived for removal to a church.

Airplanes Aloft

Airplanes trailing green streamers circled lazily, high above the building during the morning as the unnumbered multitude walked in rapid file past the bier.

Probably never before had there been a greater swarm of humanity here than that which jammed the corridors and entrances and extended many blocks beyond the building. A dozen women fainted, and two nurses were assigned to care for them. National guardsmen managed the throng with difficulty.

At noon, while thousands still awaited an opportunity for a last look at the flier's face, the state's official observance began. Governor Marland, accompanied by Brig. Gen. H. W. Butler of Fort Sill, representing President Roosevelt, marched through a forced lane to the second floor spot where the body lay.

Governor's Eulogy

"Wiley Post has come to rest," the governor said, his deep voice raised above the murmur of the crowd.

"The body of Oklahoma's son begins the sleep eternal beneath the sod he loved. His spirit in company with the spirit of Oklahoma's Will Rogers, his pal, taken its flight to that bourne from which no traveler ever returns.

"Wiley Post flew around the earth. Wiley Post ascended above the earth to heights thought unattainable by man. Today Wiley Post precedes us, his friends, on the greater journey we all must take some day

"Happy landing, Wiley Post, in that heaven of all brave souls . . . Nothing we poor mortals can say or do will add to the lasting glory or prestige of these two Oklahoma sons. x x x x

"We who are assembled here, their Oklahoma kinsmen and friends, can but say to our dear departed—

"Fare thee well, Will Rogers; fare thee well, Wiley Post.

"Happy landing!"

After a brief invocation by the Reverend William Slack, former naval airman now minister of the Methodist church at Lawton, the casket was moved toward the south steps of the Capitol.

From the Capitol the crowd hurried to the First Baptist church for the final rites after which the body was to be interred in a crypt at Fairlawn cemetery.

BRITISH CLEAR AS TO COURSE IN WAR CRISIS

Cabinet Discusses Actions to Be Taken Against Italy

London, Aug. 22—(AP)—The British cabinet, called into extraordinary session by the impending African crisis, is of "very clear mind as to what should be done."

That was the description of the four and three-quarters hour conference made by Ramsay MacDonald, lord president of the council, as he left 10 Downing street today.

The former Premier seemed in happy spirits as he and his son, Malcolm, the colonial secretary, for their homes.

MacDonald said: "We are very calm and cool."

The 22 members of the cabinet, fully discussed and outlined the plans the British will follow when the council of the League of Nations goes into action next month.

Mainly, it was understood, they debated the question of sanctions—the punishment of nations which violate treaty or other international obligations.

The ministers heard a full report from Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations affairs, of his recent conference in Paris with representatives of France and Italy.

Considered Embargo

Afterward they considered the question of the arms embargo, which has been clamped down by Great Britain on both Italy and Ethiopia, then they debated the course to be followed at next month's session of the League of Nations council at Geneva.

The new crisis in international affairs has arisen since parliament recessed Aug. 2. When parliament adjourned it was stated definitely that Britain was ready to abide by its obligations under the League of Nations covenant, but would not play the role of "lone policeman" in maintaining peace.

Now a new element has crept in—a growing fear that Mussolini has aspirations beyond mere conquest of Ethiopia which are a threat to British colonial possessions.

May Take Lone Stand

With the United States firmly attached to the path of neutrality and France pleading for the need of the most extreme caution, the cabinet considered the hazardous question whether England and her empire should risk individual action. It had to decide whether Britain would apply sanctions to Italy in the event other member states of the League of Nations balk at such a drastic step.

Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, and Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations affairs, are convinced that sanctions are vital for Britain's future.

Great Britain is anxious to obtain American support, and it is thought possible some definite overture may result from the cabinet meeting.

A decision was also expected regarding the lifting of the arms embargo against both Italy and Ethiopia.

FRANCE IS WORRIED

Paris, Aug. 22—(AP)—The worries of Premier Pierre Laval over the possible wrecking of the League of Nations were increasing today.

Fear was prevalent in France that hasty action by the British government would make Italy doubly determined to conquer the Ethiopian empire.

Following the frank admission of Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italy's spokesman at the tri-power conference in Paris, that Italy was strongly considering quitting the League, the French hoped that the British cabinet's deliberations would result in a "friendly" decision.

Laval hoped that a conciliatory cabinet would permit diplomatic activity to continue with Il Duce in a receptive mood. Although Mussolini has refused to brook interference with his campaign in East Africa, Laval has been negotiating with him with a view to limiting war, if he cannot prevent it entirely.

NO HOPE FOR SHIP BILL.

Washington, Aug. 22—(AP)—All hope for passage before adjournment of a direct ship subsidy bill vanished today with an announcement by Senator Copeland (D-N.Y.) that President Roosevelt had refrained from giving a "positive" opinion on a new draft prepared by Copeland's commerce committee.

20 WORKMEN KILLED.

of sanctions, without running the danger of Il Duce considering it a hostile act.

They said there was no precedent for such an act since the 1886 treaty which neutralized the waterway, no attempt has been made to deny its use to combatant ships.

Economic sanctions, officials said, would be equally

JAIL-BIRDS?

By Joseph Fort Newton
E thine own palace, or the world's thy jail," wrote John Donne in a verse-letter to a friend three hundred years ago by. Donne was a preacher as well as a poet—Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral in London. Some of his sermons are gorgeous tapestries of prose, but not even he ever put more truth in a more perfect form.

More than once this line has been selected as the finest single line in English poetry. It has richness and rhythm, point and drive, and it sends a plain truth singing into our innermost heart.

It puts it up to us whether we live in a palace or a prison—free men or jail-birds. It is no good blaming anybody else; we ourselves are free or fettered—we ourselves are heaven or hell.

A character in a recent story put it plainly: "You want books of fun and brightness, books to take you out of yourself, because there is so little in yourself to want to be alone with."

If a man cannot bear to be alone, if he cannot endure his own company, if he cannot amuse himself and must pay money to others to entertain him with all sorts of ghostly tricks—he is a jail-bird!

For, whether we like it or not, each of us must somehow live with himself, since he cannot jump out of his skin. Each must learn how to be at home with his own soul and enjoy its company.

To fail in this is to fail fatally;

Program for Band Concert in Dixon on Friday Evening

The Dixon Municipal band, directed by Ned H. Smith, will render another of its popular summer concerts Friday evening at the corner of River street and Peoria avenue at 8 o'clock. Assistant Director Earl Senneff will be presented as a soloist playing "Romance" by Benet on the trombone. Eugene Lebre will be the vocal soloist and will sing "It's Easy to Remember." The program is as follows:

March—"Soreamer" (Huff).
Overture—"Raymond" (Thomson).
March—"Camp Grant" (Bugtune).
Trombone solo—"Romance" (Benet)—Earl Senneff.
(a) "Humoresque" (Dvorak). (b) "La Corella" (Borel-Clerc).
Song—"It's Easy to Remember"—Eugene Lebre—(Rodgers).
Fox Trot—"Get Rhythm in Your Feet"—(Livingston).
Selection—"Rio Rita"—(Tierney).
Fox Trot—"On the Good Ship Lollypop"—(Whitting).
March—"Them Bases"—(Huff).
"Star Spangled Banner".

It makes life a feverish discontent, unhappy, afraid, if not a frantic search for something with which to fill empty hours, dull days, and tiresome years.

Let us get off by ourselves, times, in green woods by silvery waters, on quiet country roads, or by the seashore, if only to get acquainted over again with our own souls, and be our own palace.

Why be a jail-bird when we can live in a palace and be free? No matter how humble our lot or how hard our work may be, there is a way of living and thinking which will make us master of it.

If we can live with ourselves we are the best of good company!

SUMMER ENTERTAINING
This menu is suitable to serve for informal luncheon or refreshments and the foods can be prepared hours prior to serving.

Summer Suggestion
Summer Salad
Cheesed Wafers
Fruit Ambrosia
Peach Sherbet
Alice's Sponge Cake
Salted Pecans

Summer Salad
8 slices pineapple
2 cups seeded black cherries
8 cream cheese balls
1-2 cup mayonnaise
Chill all ingredients. Arrange pineapple on lettuce. Surround with cherries and top with cheese. Add mayonnaise and serve immediately.

Fruit Ambrosia
1 cup sugar
2 cups water
4 cups iced tea
2 cups orange juice
1-2 cup lemon juice
6 cups iced water
Pint gingerale
Boil sugar and water 2 minutes. Cool and add rest of ingredients. Serve in glasses 1-3 filled with chopped ice.

Alice's Sponge Cake
6 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1-4 cup cold water
1 cup pastry flour
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
6 egg whites, beaten
Beat egg yolks and add 1-2 the sugar. Beat until creamy. Add extract, salt and water. Beat whites and add rest of sugar and beat until creamy. Combine with egg yolks. Fold in rest of ingredients. Mix lightly. Pour into ungreased loaf or sponge cake pan. Bake 1 hour in slow oven. Invert pan until cake has cooled. Carefully remove cake and serve plain or frosted with white or yellow icing.

Milk is capable of carrying germs so handle it carefully during warm weather. As soon as received store it in coldest part of refrigerator.

To obtain juice from an onion, cut in halves and with spoon press against cut surface until juice is extracted. Onion juice is often preferable to chopped onion.

String Ensemble in Chamber Music Recital Sunday Evening

Music lovers of Dixon and community will be afforded a rare opportunity next Sunday evening when the Dixon Country Club presents Russell Mason and his String Ensemble in a Chamber Music Recital.

Three numbers are to be presented: John Sebastian Bachs "Suite in B Minor" for flute and strings; The "Clarinet Quintet" by Johannes Brahms and George Frederick Handel's "Concerto Grosso No. 10" for oboe and string quartet.

This concert marks the first performance in Dixon of these rare bits of Kammermusik. It is hoped a large and appreciative audience will avail themselves of this fine opportunity to hear these unusual compositions of the old masters.

Dance for Young Folks Dixon Club

The Young People of the Dixon Country Club are giving a dance on the evening of Monday, Aug. 26, at the Dixon club. All young people are privileged to invite their friends. As it is the last dance of the season at the club, a large attendance is anticipated. It is announced by the committee in charge that a good orchestra has been secured.

Lucille Morris of Franklin Grove is Bride Last Evening

Franklin Grove, Aug. 22.—Miss Lucille M. Morris, daughter of Mrs. Alice Morris, of Franklin Grove, became the bride of William E. Erven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Erven of Chicago in a lovely garden wedding Wednesday evening at 5:30 o'clock. The Rev. C. W. Lahman of Franklin Grove read the service at the beautiful country home of the bride's mother, in the presence of 35 guests.

The impressive single ring service was said before an improvised altar of garden flowers arranged under an ivy covered lattice arch.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Kathryn Lehman of Dixon, cousin of the bride, very ably rendered a vocal solo entitled "All For You," by Bertrand Brown. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Paul Myers of Aurora who also played Lohengrin's Wedding March as the processional.

The bridesmaids were Miss Emma Dehnke of Chicago and Miss Winifred Clarke of Alpin, Michigan, former college classmates of the bride. They wore gowns of yellow organza and carried bouquets of tea roses and baby's breath.

They were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Ruth Pate, also a college friend of the bride, of Murfreesboro, Tennessee, gown in green organza and carrying an arm bouquet of yellow gladioli and roses. The bride's attendants all wore bandeaus of flowers to match their bouquets.

Audra Miller, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy J. Miller, dressed in yellow organza and carrying a basket of daisy petals preceded the bride to the altar.

The bride, a charming brunette, was lovely in a gown simply but stunningly fashioned of white eyelid organza over taffeta. She wore a three-quarter length veil arranged in tiny plaits and held at each side by orange blossoms.

The groom was attended by Mr. Jack Casey of Chicago. They were both attired in white suits with black ties and handkerchiefs. Their boutonnieres were respectively gardenias and yellow rose.

The bride is a winsome young lady with many friends in the vicinity of Franklin Grove and Dixon and has taught physical education in the Chicago schools for several years.

The groom is of estimable character and holds a responsible position with the General Electric Company in Chicago.

After the ceremony the bride's mother entertained the wedding guests at dinner at the Colonial Inn in Grand Detour.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Erven, Mrs. Dora Hartwell, Mrs. Charles Walton, Miss Alva Olson, Miss Emma Dahnke, and Mr. Jack Casey all of Chicago; Miss Marion World and Mr. Peter Posier of Oak Park; Mrs. Paul Myers of Aurora; Miss Winifred Clarke of Alpin, Michigan; Miss Ruth Pate of Murfreesboro, Tennessee; Mr. and Mrs. Claire Lehman of Berwyn.

The bride couple left immediately for a short trip to northern Wisconsin, after which they will return to Chicago to make their home.

Announcement and Shower Wednesday

Miss Cleo Thurm entertained last evening with a miscellaneous shower for Miss Lynn Habecker who is leaving Sept. 1st for Eureka, Ill., to attend college. Miss Habecker received a number of nice gifts and best wishes for successful school days.

At the same time Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thurm announced the engagement of their daughter Cleo to Donald Lepley of Dixon, the wedding to take place in the near future. The wedding is to take place in October.

There were eighteen present to enjoy the happy evening in music and social chat. Delicious refreshments were served. Dainty decorations were in pink and white, with flowers in these shades emphasizing the color combination.

Ladies' Day Golf Program at Club

A satisfactory number of ladies participated in the ladies' day golf program at the Dixon Country Club Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Carl Buchner, Sr. and Mrs. Wilson Dysart scoring 4 up on bogey to tie at the end of 18 holes of play. Miss Catherine Rorer won the prize for low putts, 33.

Welch-Conner Wedding Wednesday

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Catholic church in Tampico, Miss Eleanor Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Welch of Deer Grove and Charles Conner, son of Mrs. W. A. Conner of this city, plighted their marriage troth with the Rev. Fr. T. A. Maguire officiating. During the nuptial mass Miss Ruth O'Neill sang "I Love You Truly." Miss Catherine Keefe presided at the organ.

Miss Bernadine Welch, sister of the bride, and Donald Carolus, were the attendants to the couple. The bride's gown was gold cloth trimmed in brown velvet and she wore a brown velvet hat. She carried yellow tea roses. His sister was attired in pink crepe and brown accessories and had a bouquet of pink tea roses.

The wedding breakfast was served to 45 guests at the Welch home. Among the guests were: Mrs. A. M. Peck, Chicago; Mrs. W. A. Conner, Mrs. George Carous and Miss Frances Conner, Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Conner, Mr. and Mrs. Lourde J. Welch, Miss Mary Welch, Miss La Rita Welch, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Liguori Welch, Dixon, Cecil Welch and A. A. Welch New York City; Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire, Deer Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Conner left immediately for Chicago and next week will take a honeymoon trip. They will reside at 434 Wellington street. Mrs. Conner was graduated from Community high school, Sterling, and for two years has been employed in the sales tax department at Springfield.

Mr. Conner graduated from the Sterling high school and Northwestern university. He is employed by the Ditto Co. in Chicago. Best wishes from their many friends are extended to the happily married couple.

Grennan-Carlson Wedding, Aug. 29th

On Thursday, Aug. 29, Miss Irene Grennan, Sterling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Grennan of Amboy, will become the bride of Albert Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Carlson of Dixon, at 10 A. M. at the rectory of St. Mary's church, Sterling. The Rev. Mr. A. J. Burns will perform the ceremony.

The bride-elect's sister, Mary Jane Grennan, and George Carlson, the groom's brother, will attend the couple. At 11 A. M., there will be a wedding breakfast in the Lincoln tavern.

Miss Grennan was graduated from Sterling Community high school and Mr. Carlson was graduated from Dixon high school. He is manager of the National Tea company store in Savanna.

For Bed Time Comfort ... CHATHAM ... "64" SPECIFICATION Sheets and Pillow Cases

The Actual Facts About this Fabric and Their Meaning to You:

Chatham "Specification" Muslin is strictly "first" quality, inspected for uniformity, wear and finish. Wrapped in "Cellophane", these sheets are ready for use.

THREAD COUNT—The thread count of a fabric is the number of yards per inch lengthwise (warp) and crosswise (filling). This fabric is woven 64 warp threads by 64 fillings threads, making a total of 128 threads to the square inch.

TENSILE STRENGTH—The tensile strength of a fabric is the number of pounds strain that it will take without tearing, both lengthwise and crosswise. This fabric tests 62 pounds warp, and 58 pounds filling.

WEIGHT—The weight of a fabric is an important measure of the amount of cotton you are buying. This fabric weighs 4.3 ounces per square yard.

SIZING—A certain amount of starch or sizing is necessary in finishing a sheet to make a neat, even fold and give it a smooth soft finish. The sizing in this sheet averages 6%. Strong tape selvages give reinforcement to the fabric.

This is a Medium-Weight Muslin for Service Use.

Louis vs. Baer Fight in New York Sept. 24

New York, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The 15-round heavyweight boxing bout between Joe Louis, sensational Detroit Negro, and Max Baer, former world champion, was set definitely for Tuesday, Sept. 24, at the Yankee Stadium, New York. It was announced today by Mike Jacobs, promoter.

The decision to hold the bout under the auspices of the 20th Century Sporting Club, in co-operation with the Milk Fund, confirmed expectations.

Jacobs discarded attractive offers to shift the fight to Chicago or Detroit, whose sportsmen made a belated but unsuccessful attempt yesterday to influence the promoter to take the match to the home town of the "Brown Bomber."

The amount of fuel used to heat buildings in Illinois, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania is greater than all that required to heat the 28 states west of the Mississippi.

A weight of 188 pounds can be supported by a silver wire 1-12th inch in diameter.

PEACE SETS ITS PRICE IN GREAT SACRIFICES

For a people so anxious to keep out of war, we Americans do singularly little thinking about the price of remaining at peace.

We talk as if war were something that nations went into absent-mindedly. We assure ourselves that since the overwhelmingly majority of Americans don't want another war, we shall be able to stay out of it simply by an exercise of the will.

By talking and acting that way, we help to pave the way for a repetition of what happened in April, 1917.

What we need to understand is that peace has its price. It isn't something you can have by just wishing for it, in this modern world. You have to prepare for it, plan for it and make sacrifices for it.

George Soule, editor of the New Republic, discusses the price of peace in a recent issue of his magazine. He points out that sales of American goods to warring nations, visits of American business agents to war capitals, loans of American money and the presence of American ships in war zones got us into the last war and would almost certainly do the same thing in the next.

The one remedy, therefore, he adds, is to follow a different course.

If we give up the old conception of the 'freedom of the seas' and do not try to protect our ships or the goods they may bear to the belligerents," he writes, "if we do not attempt to guard the interests or lives of our citizens in the war zones, and if above all we prevent the growth of war trade with the belligerents by embargoing all loans and all shipments of contraband to them, most of the economic complications that entangled us in the last war will not be given a chance to weave their fatal web."

There, then, is the formula; simple, but expensive. Shall we have the nerve, as a nation, to apply it when that next European war breaks out?

It would mean, for instance, depriving our south of a market for half of its cotton, and our northwest of a market for half of its wheat. It would mean depriving our great industrial districts of the chance to grow rich and prosperous—the chance, also, to end our unemployment problem—out of war orders. It would mean refusing to let all the idle ships in our harbors go back to gainful employment.

It can be done—if we want to do it badly enough. It can't be done at all, however, if we fail to count the cost in advance. Unless we realize that remaining at peace in a world that has gone to war will call for sacrifices right out of the old pocketbook, we shall get into the next war just as we got into the last one—and for the same reasons.

FORECLOSURE IS FORECLOSURE

"Perched high above the street level in the 3400 block on Nineteenth street in Washington, is a steep little frame house," writes Congressman Dirksen of the Peoria district. "It is empty. Last winter it was occupied by a father, mother, and seven children on relief who tried to pay $45 a month rent, but finally gave up in despair. In December, 1933 the HOLC made a loan of $7400 on this property. A Mrs. Thomas who owns the house could not meet the monthly payments. On Monday, four men drove up in front, got out, looked at the house, looked at each other. One of them extracted and read a paper stating that judgment had been taken by the HOLC and that the house would be sold. Another, an auctioneer, with little enthusiasm, began his task. 'How much am I bid for this fine little cottage in a select neighborhood? How much am I bid? It was extremely hot. Finally another member of the group spoke up. It was Mr. Jacobs of the HOLC. 'Six thousand dollars,' he drawled. 'Six thousand once, six thousand twice, six thousand—who'll raise? Are you all done? Sold to the HOLC for six thousand dollars.' A few wide-eyed children listened uncomprehensively for a moment and resumed their play on the sidewalk. Just another foreclosure tragedy. The HOLC will wait sixty days to give the owner an opportunity to redeem, and after that will recondition the place and then rent or sell it. To do that requires a special division of the HOLC. There has been set up, therefore, a division of the HOLC which is called the Property Management corporation."

Wherein it appears that Uncle Sam can don holiday attire and become Santa Claus and don the garb of Uncle Shylock and become a money-changer and that a foreclosure is only a foreclosure whether it is carried out by Uncle Sam or the other money-changers.

WHO CARES?

Grover C. Bergdoll, our most notorious draft dodger, again has sent word to the United States government on what terms he will surrender. One of the terms is that his family shall be permitted to reside permanently in the United States. Anxiety over American education for his children is prompting him in making this offer, he said.

Mr. Bergdoll is the forgotten man. Who cares whether or not he surrenders? He evaded army officers and made his escape to Germany. He wouldn't face his punishment and has continued to reside in Germany. There he married and is rearing his children.

This rich young man made his choice. He thought he preferred Germany to America and went there. Now if he thinks he prefers the United States, let him come back and face the consequences just as lawbreakers have to do. He attaches too much importance to his case and the concern of the government as to whether or not he ever comes back.

THE LIFE STORY OF WILL ROGERS

Chapter 4 -- Example Atoones for Scandals of Others

(Editor's Note: This is the last of four stories revealing the homely sides of Will Rogers which gave him his unique position as First Jester to the American people.

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

The tinsel-and-glitter side of Hollywood never touched Will Rogers at all. He had his sense of values before he went there, and it remained the same.

His position was so secure that he did not have to stoop to nasty little tricks of scrambling upward, and he was grounded deeply enough in ranch and family life not to care at all for whoopee.

That is why his sudden death unloosed an avalanche of genuine sorrowful comment in Hollywood: "I loved Will Rogers." . . . "There is a big gap left in the screen world." . . . "He was the most charitable man I ever knew." . . . "I feel like I had lost my best friend."

"Everybody who worked with him loved him." . . . "When my husband passed away, Will Rogers was like a brother to me."

"He was the most charitable, the most tolerant man I have ever known. There was not an atom of envy in his system."

Amassed Fortune in Millions—That is the way they felt, the people with whom Will Rogers lived and worked. Eddie Cantor, an old friend for 20 years, consolidated many comments into: "He was one man in the entertainment world who more than balanced by his exemplary life any of the scandals involving people of the theater."

The American people have always been willing to pay well anyone who amuses them. They paid Will Rogers, their favorite jester, very well indeed. His estate is expected to come to well over $2,000,000. Always a canny investor and business man, Rogers had more than $1,000,000 in insurance, a large Beverly Hills home, his favorite ranch near Santa Monica, and other California and Oklahoma oil interests and real estate, as well as sizable chunks of government bonds and cash. He was one of the wealthiest stars in a community where big money is a commonplace.

Shunned Social Spotlight But Will Rogers lived simply, as befitted a simple man. He didn't drink, smoke or chew (except gum) which helped him keep from smoking. He didn't go to night clubs or first-nights. He didn't go in for the social swim, and his attitude toward such things is well exemplified in a story often told in Hollywood:

A swanky Hollywood hostess invited Will to a dinner, but did not include Mrs. Rogers in the invitation. Will went, and was asked to entertain. He did so, but later sent the hostess a bill for services rendered. When she protested that he had been a guest, Will answered: "I am never a guest when Mrs. Rogers is not invited."

This devotion to Mrs. Rogers and this distinction between his public and private life was characteristic of Will Rogers, and was one of the things many Hollywood folks found hard to understand.

Horses His Hobby He was modest about his Santa Monica ranch, saying, "Oh, yes, I have a weed-patch out there, and I feed a few horses."

But he was secretly proud of it, and enjoyed it thoroughly. While there, he usually arose at 5 A. M. His latching was literally always out to his friends. They knew he kept a key in a notched hole on one side of the gatepost.

He loved his horses, and loved to play polo because it necessitated really skillful and hard riding. He had no interest in the pink tea aspect of polo. He usually played in denim pants and a flannel shirt, even when the rest of the players were in immaculate whites. But he was no clown at the game. His three goal rating was official.

He'd "Dress" for Stones! His dislike of formal dress was genuine and deep-seated. When he consented to "dress up" for a formal dinner or party, that meant a blue serge suit and black tie. One of the few times he consented to dress formally was at the debut of

"On the set" . . . Will Rogers studies one of his appealing parts.

Paula Stone, daughter of his old friend, Fred Stone. It was his way of showing his love for the Stones.

To every great star of stage or screen the "benefit racket" becomes a cross to be borne as patiently as possible. All sorts of dubious proposals demand their aid. Yet when the things was on the level, no one was more generous of his time and talents than Will Rogers. A half dozen tours benefited the Red Cross in time of need.

Once when on tour with Frank Hawkes for the relief of drought sufferers, they were in a small southern town. The local chairman asked Will to speak at a Negro church. Will said he would if they would sing him a couple of spirituals, which were his favorite music.

Will told later that there were 500 voices in the choir, and that more than 2000 people overflowed the church.

Never Collected His Bets "It developed into a contest," he drawled. "I'll tell a few jokes and they would ask for a few more. I'd agree if they'd sing another spiritual, and they'd agree to sing another song if I'd tell some more stories. It went on until both of us was pretty near worn out, but it was one of the most memorable evenings I've ever spent anywhere."

He loved to let. But he would never collect when he won, though he was always more than prompt to pay off when he lost.

No big spectacular charities marked his course through Hollywood. But no sooner was his death announced than hundreds of little people began to recall the times when Will Rogers had helped them out. Three Boy Scouts whose expenses he had arranged to pay to the national jamboree in Washington. Things like that.

Example in Gentle Living The Fairbanks, Alaska, baseball team is playing in the Discovery Day celebration at Dawson right now, aided by $100 contributed to them by Rogers just before his departure for Nome with Wiley Post.

It was in little things like this that Will Rogers showed Hollywood a living example of how to be simple though rich, modest though famous, and in every relationship kindly and gentle.

On the high plateau overlooking Santa Monica Bay where lies Will Rogers' ranch, everything is unnaturally quiet and still today. On the hooks in the tack room the ropes and lariates hang motionless.

THE END.

During the recreation hour, in charge of Mrs. Fred Wagner, chairman, Mrs. Raymond Degner and Mrs. Harvey Heibenthal, several unique and interesting games were played in which honors were received by Mrs. Oliver Elsenberg, Mrs. Fred Tadd, Clarence C. Kersten, LaVerne Kersten and William Heibenthal. In the corn guessing contest Harry Schafer guessed within three of the correct number of kernels in the jar.

The loving cup for the oldest person present, was awarded to George F. Schafer, 77, while Master Norman Ray Krug seven weeks old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krug, received the cup for the youngest. Mr. and Mrs. William Schafer and daughter Thelma, of Dycard, Iowa were presented a tiny airplane for coming the greatest distance.

In a ball game between the married and the single men the former in charge of Clarence Heibenthal and William G. Henert, lost to the latter in charge of Raymond Kersten and Alvin Krug.

Those from a distance attending the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. William Schafer and daughter Thelma, Mr. and Mrs. August Kersten, Mrs. William Raub and son Billie, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ewaldt and daughter Donna Jean and Mr. and Mrs. Neils Schmidt and family of Dysart, Iowa; Henry Fry of Garrison, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelley and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bruns of Rockford; and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gormerman and daughter Carol Jean of De Kalb.

Mr. and Mrs. John Drummond were entertained in honor of Mr. Drummond's birthday anniversary at a birthday dinner at the home of his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs.

ASHTON NEWS

The third annual reunion of the Kersten family, which was held on Sunday at Memorial park, Rochelle, was participated in by 240 relatives and friends and a very delightful day was spent together.

Following a delicious basket dinner spread on two long tables at the north end of the park in the shade of the lovely trees and enjoyed to the limit by all, a short business meeting was conducted by the president, Glenn Pfoutz, at which the principal business was the election of the following officers for the next year: President, Clifford Schafer; vice president, Mrs. Edward Ventler; secretary, Verlis Todd; treasurer, Frank Kersten. A short talk was given by Mr. Carney of Rochelle.

A very entertaining program prepared by a committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schampf, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kersten, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Kersten and Misses Rowena Schafer and Florence Ventler occupied the early part of the afternoon and included a solo, "In a Little Red School House," sung by Miss Helen Kersten who responded to an encore with "On the Good Ship Lollipop." Kenneth and Donald Kelley of Rockford sang "A Light Shinning bright In the Hollow," "A Home In Wyoming," after which Miss Rogene Henert gave a very enjoyable humorous reading, "A Medley of Old Time Songs" was sung by Miss Rowena Schafer followed by a delightful humorous reading by Miss Oma Schafer.

Very pleasantly interspersing these numbers in the program were several bright and appropriate selections played by an orchestra composed of violins, Rogene Henert, Edward Kersten and Lois Kersten; cornet, Joy Sandrock; clarinet, Claude Drummond of Rochelle Sunday.

Mrs. John D. Charters was hostess to 16 ladies Thursday at a 9:30 breakfast followed by bridge. Flavors were won by Mrs. Jessie Rosecrans and Miss Jessie Clover, a guest prize being presented to Mrs. Mary Arner who is soon moving to Rochelle. Guests from out of town were Mrs. E. S. Rosecrans, Mrs. Grover Gehant and Miss Leola Quick of Dixon.

Miss Dorothy Dean was a guest several days the past week at the home of her friends, Misses Elizabeth and Rosemary Nangle at Paw Paw.

Dean and Jean Vogeler who have been visiting at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glickerson at Belvidere, returned home Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vogeler and Mrs. William F. Klingebiel who were Sunday guests at the Glickerson home.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Griffith entertained at their home several days this week their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Griffith and family of Evanston.

Miss Jean Root's many friends will be pleased to learn that she has been awarded a half scholarship at the International Music camp at Interlochen, Mich., for having the best consistent playing position in the orchestra. Miss Jean was chosen as the most outstanding of the seventeen individuals who had been selected to participate in this contest, and was awarded the scholarship Sunday evening.

Jeann's host of friends rejoice with her in her success, and wish for her many more such honors.

Sunday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Krug were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krug and family of Rochelle.

Earl Farver visited several days last week at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Herbert of Dixon.

Mrs. William Klingebiel went to De Kalb Tuesday to visit a few days at the home of her sister and husband Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tadd. Her son, James had been visiting there since Friday.

Guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Witzel are Misses Delores and Thelma Cleveland of Amboy.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sanders and son Leslie and W. D. Quick visited the Brookfield zoo Sunday.

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Glenn were Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Hall of Davenport, Iowa.

Mrs. P. O. Smith of Steward has been visiting relatives in and about Ashton for the past two weeks.

Miss Minnetta Hilliard is entertaining as her guest for a few weeks Miss Mary Krug of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sanders of Urbana called last Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wagner. Mrs. Wagner accompanied them to Dixon where they were guests over night at the home of Mrs. Sanders' sisters, Mrs. Clara Forsberg.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hersch of Buffalo, Minn., entertained over the week-end their daughter, Mrs. Orville Hanson and husband.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Tilton were Mrs. H. L. Moore and sons Glenn and Fred of Pipestone, Minnesota.

Thursday visitors at the George VanNess home were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clark and son Arland of Richmond.

Mrs. Rose Levin entertained over the week-end her daughters Miss Rowena Levin, Mrs. Alpern and daughter, her son Harry Levin, and friend Herman Sachs. Mrs. Alpern and daughter remained for a week's visit at the home of her mother.

Miss Frances Wood returned to Elgin last week after a few days' visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Attis, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heibenthal, and Mrs. Emma Yenerich enjoyed a trip to the Brookfield zoo Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rae Chadwick and family and Mrs. Caroline Zeller enjoyed a picnic dinner at Star Rock Sunday.

Miss Mary Ethel Rosecrans is spending a week visiting at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Buhler of Dixon.

HORNER THROWS HAT IN RING AT THE STATE FAIR

Officially Announces His Candidacy for Re-election Today

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 22—(AP)—Henry Horner today announced his candidacy for a second term as governor.

Speaking before thousands of Democrats at the Governor's Day rally at the Illinois State Fair, Horner pledged support to President Roosevelt in the 1936 campaign and credited the retail sales tax with making possible much of the work of his administration.

"I am ready to lead the fight for you in Illinois in 1936," he declared at the end of his prepared speech, after a brief reference to endorsements of the state administration for a second term.

"The enemies of the New Deal and the exponents of the raw deal may continue to attack President Roosevelt but they must already know that their efforts to take Illinois from the Roosevelt column will be in vain," the governor declared.

Praised Sales Tax

Much of the speech was devoted to praise of the sales tax, which the governor described as "a blessing and a necessity." Promising to call a special session to lower the present three per cent rate if it becomes possible, Horner said of the sales tax:

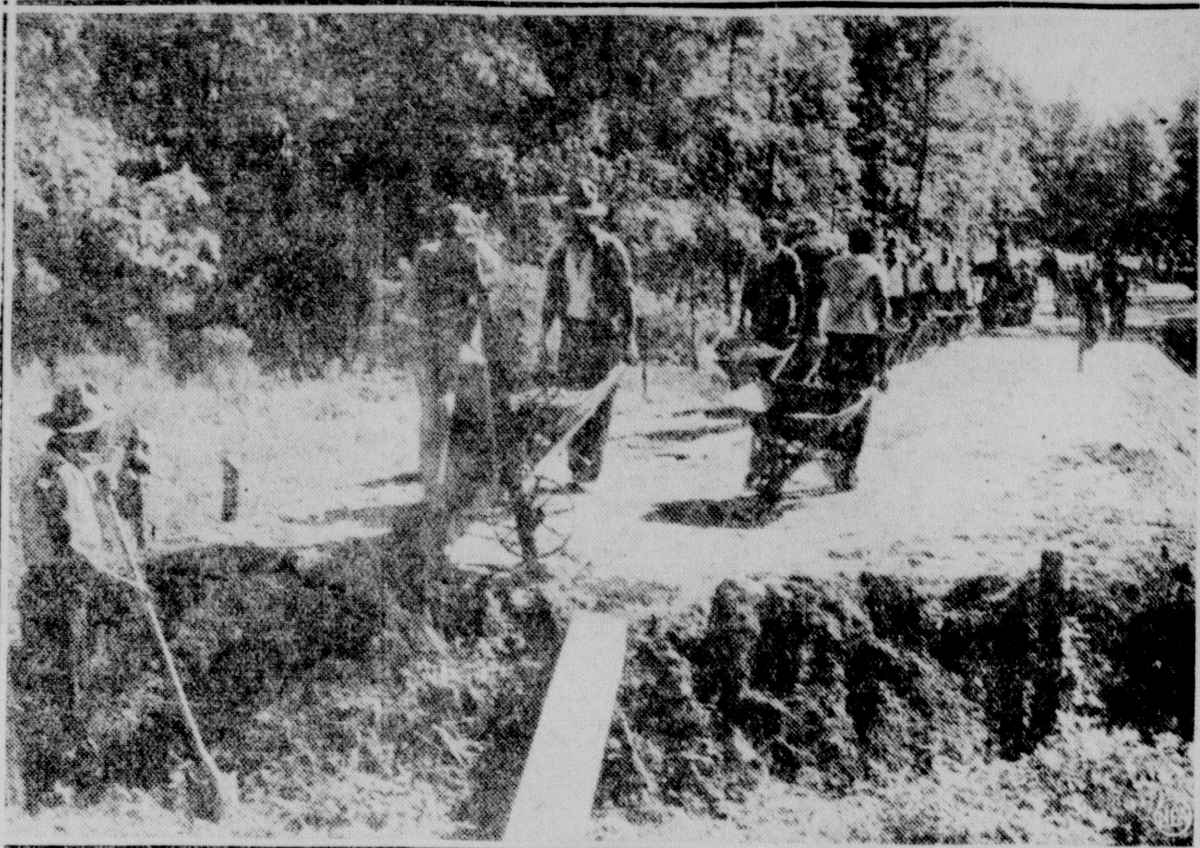

"Without it we could not have removed the state tax on real estate, for a practical and fair income tax, which I favor, is impossible under our present constitution. x x x x"

"Without the sales tax we could not have increased the common school fund from $21,000,000 biennially to $26,000,000. By reason of it we have increased the moneys provided from the state treasury during the present administration for education in Illinois $20,000,000 more than during any previous administration. We are providing more money annually for education in Illinois than ever has been done in the history of the state. Your state government has faithfully stood by our public schools and will continue to stand by them.

Increased Relief

"Without the sales tax we could not have provided the $5,000,000 we have appropriated for old age pensions. By the old age pension act we have kept step with progress and social security. "Without the sales tax we could not have provided increased blind and mothers' pensions and provided for a $15,000,000 building program which will enable us to care adequately for the unfortunate wards of the state in our crowded welfare institutions. "Without it we could not have provided state aid for the needy local libraries in Illinois. "In spite of the campaign of misrepresentation, in spite of the partisanship that is blind to the needs of the people, Illinois has come to recognize the sales tax as a blessing and a necessity.

"If our opponents are really sincere in their desire to reinstate the state real estate tax in Illinois, I challenge them here and now to propose it."

Acknowledged Help

In reciting the work of the state administration, the governor acknowledged "untimely cooperation" from the elective state officials, the senators and the congressional delegation.

Praising Roosevelt, the governor gave historical references in declaring that Washington and Lincoln were also subject to partisan attacks. Of the Republicans, he said:

"They talk of a dictator and prate of personal liberty, and the liberty of the press, trying to forget that it was under their rule that personal liberty was struck its severest blow, and that it was under Roosevelt that it was restored in the nation, as it has been restored in Illinois, not by their efforts but in spite of them."

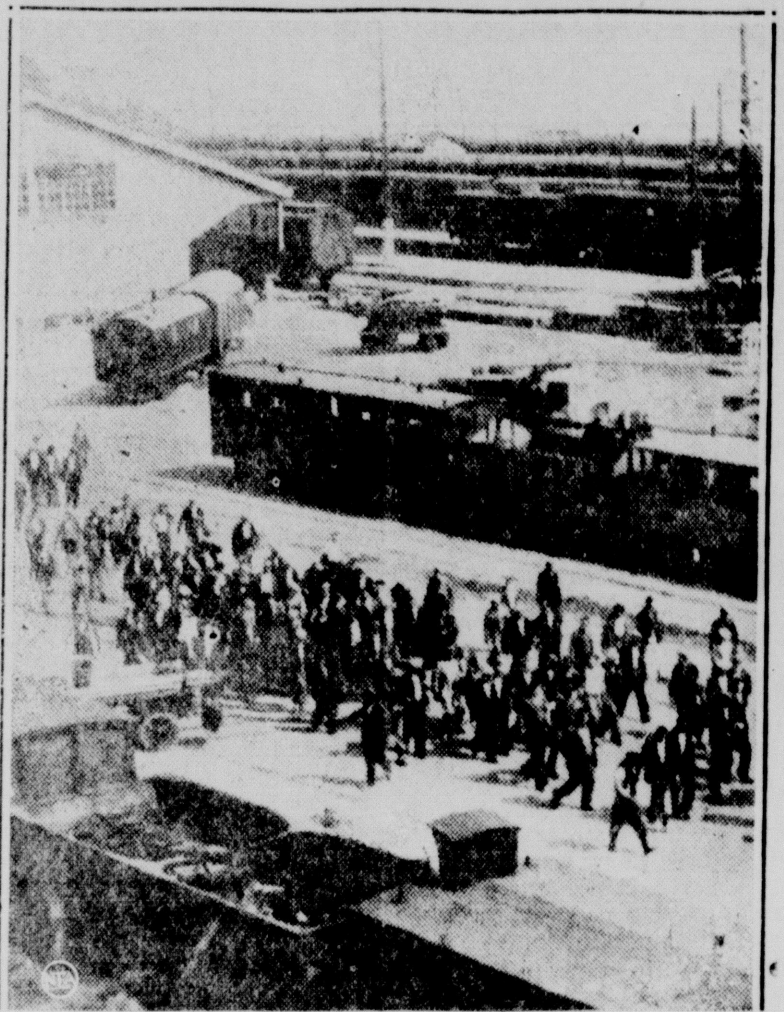

Some Leaders Absent

The prominence of some of the absentees was disregarded today as Horner opened the 1936 Democratic campaign.

The talk of a split in the leadership of the Illinois Democrats became more pronounced with word that Mayor Edward J. Kelly and some other Chicago leaders would not attend the governor's rally.

The governor was the major speaker, but three men with federal Igoe of Chicago and Howard L. Doyle of Springfield, United States District Attorneys, and Congressman Scott W. Lucas of Havana.

Bruce A. Campbell of Belleville, Democratic state chairman, was scheduled to preside. Igoe and Campbell were defeated in the 1932 primary by Horner.

Lukewarm Support

Administration leaders indicated the governor would make his race for a second term in face of recurrent reports of opposition or lukewarm support from some of the Chicago leaders.

Kelly is reported to have sent word that he could not leave his Wisconsin summer home at this time to attend the Horner rally. Patrick A. Nash, national committeeman and Cook county chairman, is in the east. Clayton P. Smith, president of the Cook county board, was also expected to be absent.

Senators Lewis and Dietrich were kept at Washington in view of the impending adjournment of congress.

By special train from Chicago and by automobiles from downstate, thousands of Democrats swelled the state fair crowd for the annual rally.

The Republicans held no official program during the fair.

Sterling Deaf Boy Second in Olympiad

London, Aug. 22—(AP)—With sixth place in the international deaf Olympiad and record-breaking performance for the meet in their possession, the two United States entrants prepared to quit London today for a visit to Paris before sailing for New York August 31.

John Chudikiewicz of Chicago, who won the world Polish javelin title at Warsaw last year, set an Olympiad record yesterday with a heave of 179 feet, 11 inches.

His teammate, Wayne Otten of Sterling, Ill., finished second in the 200 meters dash and third in the 100 meters.

"Our sprinter was unlucky in getting off to a very bad start," said S. Robey Burns, athletic director for the Illinois School for the Deaf at Jacksonville, who is in charge of the American team. "They used two pistols, which confused him."

Admit Fat Fees From Utilities in Lobby Probe

Receipt of rich fees from utilities in the fight on the administration holding company bill was admitted by these two former government high-ups, Joseph Tumulty, left, and Patrick J. Hurley, right, shown by the candid camera as they appeared before Senate lobby probes in a hectic session. Hurley, ex-secretary of war, charging that he had been "put in a goldfish bowl" because he is a Republican, testified his law firm received $100,000 from Associated Gas & Electric in the last three years. Tumulty, former secretary to Woodrow Wilson, admitted he had been paid $33,000 by utilities to fight the bill.

HAILE SELASSIE PRAYS THAT WAR MAY BE AVERTED

Ethiopian Emperor is Hopeful of Support of U. S., England

By JAMES A. MILLS

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)

Addis Ababa, Aug. 22—The soft voice of Emperor Haile Selassie, a frail, gentle-eyed figure seated in the dim-lit throne room of the imperial palace, today was lifted in prayer to prevent his 7,000-year-old kingdom of Ethiopia from being drenched in blood.

"God, give me the patience and courage to hold back my army until all efforts for peace are exhausted," he said slowly in deep, emotion-laden tones. "We shall not be the first to draw blood."

The King of Kings, granting a private interview to The Associated Press sat bowed down in thought for a few long moments. His dark, wistful eyes stared half-shut into the glowing log-wood fire on the open hearth of the sandalwood-paneled room. The fire's gleam cast a strange radiance on his finely chiseled features. Spiritual serenity is written there, and anguish. He seemed a Judean figure out of the Bible.

Has Faith in England

"I still have faith in England," he continued. "I am still hopeful that the League of Nations will work out a solution. But if a war desecrates our soil, an order for blood must come and we are ready to preserve the kingdom our fathers gave us."

"We would be untrue to our great past, which goes beyond Biblical times, and we would stain our proud record of victories if we failed in our duty."

"If Italy attempts to conquer us," he said earnestly, his eyes catching the gleam of the fire, "we shall repeat our victory of Adua. We shall be strong because we must."

"We are struggling with our backs to the wall," he said. "We are doomed, against all our wishes, to fight a mighty power, which possesses enough ammunition and instruments of death to overwhelm a much stronger nation."

Can't Understand

"I cannot understand England preventing ammunition from reaching us. We were handicapped enough without this further hindrance. Are we to fight with spears and leather shields against machine gun bullets?"

"The preamble of the treaty of 1920 says clearly that Ethiopia shall be allowed to obtain all the arms necessary to defend ourselves from external aggression. How can England break such a solemn treaty?"

Restlessly the emperor paced the parquet floor, suddenly whirling to cry:

"Where can we turn for help when the wolf of Italy is already at our throats? Will America forsake us too? I fervently hope your country won't refuse to grant export licenses for supplies already ordered in the United States."

"We know we have the highest moral right on our side. With the moral support and encouragement of great friendly countries, such as the United States and England, we know we would triumph. But it is sad to speak even of triumph. I pray that triumph will come only in peace, which hath a greater glory than war."

Wichita, Kan., Aug. 22—(AP)—Teams from Oklahoma, Illinois and Alabama were missing today from the national semi-pro baseball tournament, Shawnee, Okla., provided one of the biggest upsets of the tourney when it eliminated the Enid, Okla., state champions 5 to 4. The Denver Fuelers eliminated the Stanzak Brothers of Waukegan, Ill., 5 to 4.

Marksmen Hold Dress Rehearsal

Vandalia, O., Aug. 22—(AP)—America's premier marksmen staged a dress rehearsal today of the outstanding classic of the clay bird sport—the Grand American Handicap—preparing for the grand finale of the week's program tomorrow. Today's event, 100 targets at hand-drops—the marksmen being set back from the traps at graduated distances according to their record ability—is exactly the same as the "grand" will be.

But while today's is just another shoot, tomorrow's, over the same route, will be packed with drama. No one has ever won the event twice, and no one classed as a favorite has ever been crowned. L. G. Dana, of Derrick City, Pa., won the title last year.

Mt. Morris Band to Resume Weekly Concerts Saturday

Following two weeks of military training at Camp Grant, Illinois, Kable Brothers 129th Infantry band will resume their regular weekly concerts, next Saturday evening. During the camp period, the 129th band was selected to play the accompaniment for the world famous opera star, Mary McCormack, who sang "The Star Spangled Banner," Sunday, August 11, to an audience estimated at more than fifty thousand National Guardsmen and civilian visitors.

Warrant Officer Gerald Huffman has selected "The Charming" by Boos, for his cornet solo number, and Robert Campbell, young Freeport baritone virtuoso, will play Gardel Simon's lovely "Atlantic Zephyrus." On this program appears a new march, dedicated to and named for Captain Bronson, by Norman Hanley. Mr. Hanley, a composer of distinction, was a member of the famous Aberdeen Municipal band, while it was under the direction of Captain Bronson.

Von Weber's symphonic overture, "Euryanthe," played for the first time in several seasons, the "Cor-tege du Sarda," or "March of the Priests," a beautiful tone picture of life on the Pearl of the Pacific, "By the Blue Hawaiian Waters," excerpts from the Victor Herbert light opera, "The Red Mill," a strictly modern harmonical adaptation of "Dinah," arranged by Private Harkness, of the 130th Infantry band, a new descriptive novelty, "The Fox Hunt" and several stirring marches make up a varied and interesting program of band music.

The program:
March—"Basses Pride"—Brucher.
Overture, "Euryanthe," (Von Weber). (a) "Serenade"—(Toselli).

Cornet solo, "The Charming," (Boos)—W. O. Gerald Huffman.
Cortege du Sarda from "Caucasian Sketches"—(Tippeltow—Tzanow). (b) March, "Captain Bronson"—(Norman Hanley).

Tone picture, "By the Blue Hawaiian Waters"—(Kellby). (c) March, "Colonel Bokey"—(Alford).

Intermission
Selection from "The Red Mill"—(Victor Herbert). (d) Rhythmic study, "Dinah"—Arranged by Pvt. Harkness, 130th Infantry band.
Baritone solo, "Atlantic Zephyrus"—(Simon—Mr. Robert Campbell).
Descriptive novelty, "The Fox Hunt"—(McKinley). (e) March, "Fairest of the Fair"—(Souza).
National Anthem.

FINAL MONTH SEES CRUCIAL SERIES AGAIN

No Let-up in Games of Importance to Loop Lead

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

As the major league season draws near the final month the schedule calls for one important series after another, almost without interruption. So far there's been no real decision as the Cardinals challenged the Giants and registered only a slight gain and the Yankees and Tigers came out all square.

Still another "crucial" series opens today as the Giants and the Chicago Cubs meet with the National League lead again at stake. The league leaders have had a breathing spell since their struggle with St. Louis, trimming the Reds four times despite a few close calls, and winding up with a 3 to 0 victory yesterday.

The Cubs have split even in ten games on the road since the end of their great home stand. They slammed out 37 hits and 31 runs against the Phillies, but got only an even break that put them four games off the lead and one behind the Cards, who trimmed the Braves 13 to 3 to give Dizzy Dean his 21st mound victory.

Withstood Shelling

The Phils withstood the shelling in the opener to win 13-12 but succumbed to a sixth inning rally in the afterpiece in which 18 Cubs went to bat and 12 scored. The final tally was 19 to 5.

As against that slugging, the Giants presented the hurling of Hal Schumacher, who blanked the Reds with eight hits in a keen duel with Gene Schott to gain his 17th victory of the year and the 15th of his career over Cincinnati. The Cardinal victory also had its unusual features as the club had only two assists and Jim Collins at first handled only one change and had no putouts.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees stepped in with another record performance as his club divided a twin bill with the Browns. Lou belted a home run with the bases full to lead the way to a 14-2 triumph in the opener. That was either his 17th, according to the traveling scribes with the Yanks, or his 18th with the bases full, according to Gehrig. A complete review of his more than 1,600 games will be needed to decide the issue but at any rate he beat Babe Ruth's lifetime mark of 16 homers with the corners crammed. Lou went on to hit another homer in the afterpiece but Johnny Murphy couldn't hold the lead and St. Louis won the game 14-3.

Split Aided Detroit

The Yankee split enabled Detroit to increase its lead to seven games as the Tigers trimmed the Red Sox twice 4 to 1 and 3 to 2 with "General" Al Crowder pitching four hit ball in the opener. Meanwhile Cleveland broke even with the Athletics, winning the second game 3 to 0 behind Lloyd Brown's four hit fling after taking a 10-5 beating when Jimmie Foxx smacked his 26th homer and Bob Johnson his 23rd. The White Sox absorbed a 15 to 7 licking from the Senators.

The Brooklyn Dodgers trimmed the fourth place Pirates 5 to 0 behind George Earnshaw's six-hit fling to win their series.

JACK DOYLE TO TRY BUDDY BAER AT FISTICUFFS

New York, Aug. 22—(AP)—Jack Doyle, the crooning Irishman, and Buddy Baer, younger brother of the former champion who also can sing, show their fistic wares in Madison Square Garden Bowl tonight when they clash in the feature bout of a series of six rounds.

The Irishman, who arrived in this country to the tune of much ballyhoo, pointed to a knockout of Jack Pettifer in England as his greatest single achievement. He has fought only a few times here, winning usually by a knockout in the early rounds.

Baer, who tips the scales at 260 pounds and makes his brother, Max, look small by comparison, has been fighting about a year. Most of his bouts, against little known fighters, have been via knockout in the first round. He has been beaten only once and that in a four-round decision bout with Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla.

LONG BOXING PROGRAM WILL BEGIN ON TIME

Twenty-Nine Rounds of Fighting Are Booked Friday

The fortnightly boxing program at the Dixon airport hangar begins promptly at 8:30 P. M., Friday owing to the length of the card this week which includes four five-round bouts between eight Golden Gloves champions and three three-round bouts involving a ninth Golden Glove titlist.

Champions who will be paired in the five round features are Honey Boy Weaver, 1934-35 Golden Gloves crown-winner in the 147 pound class from Streator against Louis Viscioni, Moline district 1935 champ, Henry Huerta of Streator, 120 pound champ versus Bernard Stunkel, Rockford title-holder, Russell Ringenberger of Peoria, 135 pound champ versus James Perry, Davenport lightweight winner, and Harry Peck of Aurora, 120 pound champ against Eddie Dempsey, Golden Glove title-holder from Davenport.

In the three rounders Dixie Caudle of DeKalb who failed to fight two weeks ago because his opponent didn't appear, will battle in the 142 pound division against Sam Karben of Moline to settle all doubts of a victory accorded him against Karben when they met before and which decision proved very unpopular with the fans. Maurice Stunkel of Steward will clash with Richard Virgil of Mendota in what should be a fast battle at 147 pounds and Bim Gustafson, 1935 Golden Gloves cham from Davenport in the 160 stamp from Davenport in the 160 Starick of Chillicothe.

GOLF GREATS PRIMED TODAY FOR $4,000 MEET

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 22—(AP)—Prize money of $4,000 for 72-hole competition drew 156 of the nation's ranking shotmakers to the Hershey Country club today for the third annual Hershey open golf tournament.

Walter Hagen, Henry Picard and virtually all of the game's big shots from Coast to coast will battle over 18 holes each today and tomorrow. Then the 60 low scorers and ties will have a two-round stretch Saturday.

Ed Dudley, who won two years ago, is back for another shot at the title—and, incidentally, the $1,000 top money. Ky Laffoon of Denver, the 1934 winner, is not defending.

Also in the field are Sam Parks, the National Open champion; Denny Shute, Jimmy Thompson, California siege gun; the trick shot artists, Joe Kirkwood of Chicago and Joe Egar of Louisville; Leo Diegel, George Von Elm, Jimmy Hines, Johnny Farrell, Joe Turnesa, Bobby Cruickshank, Ray Mangrum, Al Espinosa, Bill Mehlihorn and Harold McSpaden.

Fairmount Racing Meet Won't Be Held In State This Fall

St. Louis, Aug. 22—(AP)—The Fairmount Jockey club is reconsidering its decision not to hold a racing meet at its track in nearby Illinois this fall. General Manager Robert S. Eddy, Jr., today said the club may arrange a meet to open about Sept. 20.

The American league convention to be held in St. Louis Sept. 23 to 26 has been one of the inducements, he said.

ILLINI FACES STRONG HOME PIGSKIN CARD

Five Home Games; 3 Big Ten, Two Non-League

Urbana, Ill., Aug. 22—A home football schedule that lists five games against three Big Ten and two strong non-conference opponents will be played by the University of Illinois this fall.

Iowa, Michigan and Chicago are the Big Ten rivals who will appear in the stadium, prefaced by Ohio university and Washington U, which will play preliminary games. The local Big Ten season will be opened against Iowa here on October 26, which will be Dad's day. This will be the first meeting with the Hawkeyes since the two teams played a 7-7 tie at Iowa City in 1929 and the first time that Ossie Solem has brought an Iowa team here. With 19 lettermen available, including Capt. Dick Crayne and Oze Simmons, fleet Negro halfback, the Hawkeyes are heralded as a team of great potentialities.

Historic Rivalry

Another chapter in the historic Michigan-Illinois rivalry will be written November 9 when the Wolverines play the homecoming engagement. For two years this game has been decided by one point. Michigan game undoubtedly will be years ago by a 7 to 6 score and the Illini retaliated at Ann Arbor last season by the same score. The Michigan game undoubtedly will be a high spot on the local card.

Led by the mighty Jay Berwanger, with prospects indicating a stronger team than last year, Chicago will close the season November 23. For two years the Illini have wrested victory from the Ma- roons by a single touchdown. The game here two years ago is still recalled as one of the most thrilling in recent years.

The opening games against Ohio university and Washington U are attracting unusual interest on account of the strength of these teams and it is conceded that the Illini will find the Bobcats and the Bears stubborn adversaries.

Don Peden, former Illinois half-back, who has coached Ohio successfully for a decade, will bring a veteran team to the stadium to oppose his alma mater.

Beat Washington

Illinois defeated Washington U at St. Louis last year by a score of 12 to 7 after a tight battle. The Bears have their strong 1934 team practically intact and have high hopes of victory. The contest assumes such importance as to be listed on the tentative broadcasting schedule of WGN.

The Illini will travel to Los Angeles to play Southern California and to Northwestern U. at Illinois State.

Sept. 28—Ohio (Athens) at Illinois. (High School Students' Day)

Oct. 5—Washington U. at Illinois. (Boy Scout Day)

Oct. 19—No game.

Oct. 26—Iowa at Illinois (Dad's Day)

Nov. 2—Northwestern at Evans-ton.

Nov. 9—Michigan at Illinois

PASSES WORRY ALL-STARS AND CHICAGO BEARS

Bears Plan to Take Game "In Stride" Regular Tilt

Chicago, Aug. 22—(AP)—Forward passes worried both the college All Stars and the Chicago Bears today as they entered the light polishing stage of the drills for their big football battle at Soldier Field a week from tonight.

Although the All Stars have been surprising the coaches with general all around defensive and defensive ability, they looked rather weak against Bear passes in yesterday's workout. The Bears, quartered at St. John's Military Academy, Del- afield, Wis., didn't satisfy owner-coach George Halas on aerial de- fense either.

While the All Stars have develop- ed a well defined offense, the Bears have decided to take the game in stride as if it were a regular National Professional league game. Regulation formations, to be used next fall against pros, will be em- ployed by the Bears, Halas said.

Francis "Pug" Lund, Minnesota's All American halfback, was on the All Star injured list today with a twisted back, but was sure to get into action.

DISCUSS RESETTLEMENT

Chicago—Two rural resettlement administration projects for Illinois were discussed at a three day meet- ing of executives from 12 states. They were one to provide 10 acre farms for 53 families in Lake county at a cost of $347,000 to be repaid over a 50 year period, and another to purchase 5,000 to 6,000 acres at Dixon Springs, Pope county, for 111 families.

MYERS CLAIMS GOLF BUILT UP HIS BAT MARK

Highest Average Was .297 Prior to His 1935 Comeback

Chicago, Aug. 22—(AP)—Up to this season, the lifetime batting average of Buddy Myers in the American league was .297.

Then he took up golf.

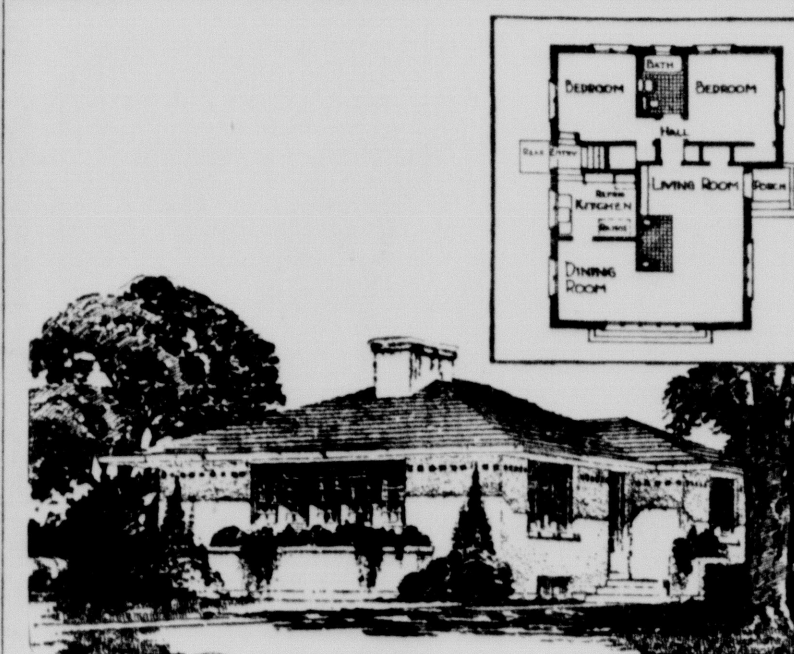

Today the Washington infielder is batting .344 and in the midst of a hot fight for the American league batting championship.

Managers and trainers, who shake their heads when their players suggest a round of golf on their days off, might have to do some explaining when this gets a- round. It's true that Buddy gives credit to other elements, such as pure luck and a better spot in the Senator batting order, for his sud- den rise in the averages, but he re- gards golf as probably the biggest reason for the change.

"I used to spend my winters hunting and fishing," said Buddy. "but last winter I decided to take up golf to toughen my legs and to reduce my waistline. Well, I had a tough time breaking 100, but I got myself into excellent condition and have been breaking into the .300 hitting class this season."

Highest Average .313

Before this year, Buddy's high- est average was .313, in 1928 when he was with the Boston Red Sox. So far this season, he has cracked out 157 hits in 457 times at bat, but most of his blows, unlike those of Joe Vosmik of Cleveland and Hank Greenberg of Detroit, two of his greatest rivals in the batting

NIGHT BALL MAY BE GIVEN TRIAL IN MAJOR LOOPS

Seven Clubs Are Open-Minded About the Lighted Game

New York, Aug. 22—(AP)—Major league club owners still are sharply divided overnight baseball, tried successfully this year by the Cin- cinnati Reds, but latest indications point definitely to its extension in 1936, with the American League following the trail blazed by the National.

Previously confined to the minors and scorned for years by the major league magnates, night baseball is being eagerly discussed and advocated by the owners. Several of them consider the Cincinnati test conclusive and feel that the noc- turnal sport's appeal, under certain limitations, will mean "financial salvation" for second-division clubs. Others, like Frank J. Navin, presi- dent of the Detroit Tigers, are out- spoken in their opposition.

Navin recently expressed the opinion night baseball "would be the beginning of the end of the major leagues" but this viewpoint is not generally shared.

Current Lineup

Here's the current lineup, based on a poll of club officials by The Associated Press:

Clubs operating or definitely planning night baseball: Cin- cinnati Reds, Boston Braves and Washington Senators.

Clubs "open-minded" but inclin- ed favorably: St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs, Philadelphia Phillies, Chicago White Sox, Pittsburgh Pi- rates and St. Louis Browns.

Clubs definitely opposed: Detroit

Five Years Ago Today — Mar- garet Ravor of Philadelphia won the 10-mile Canadian National Ex- hibition swim in Lake Ontario at Toronto.

Ten Years Ago Today — The Washington Senators took the lead in the American League by defeat- ing the Detroit Tigers, 20-5.

Tigers, Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox, New York Giants, New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodg- ers.

Non-committal: Philadelphia Athletics.

From this it can readily be seen that the balance of power on the subject is held by the clubs adopt- ing an "open mind" attitude. The chances are that most of them will swing to the support of giving the night game further trial when the issue comes before the next annual meeting, in December. By that time they will have the opportunity to digest the results of Cincinnati's experiment.

PRESIDENT IN PLEA FOR HIS UTILITY BILL

Writes House Committee Asking Acceptance of Compromise

Washington, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Hope that the house will accept a compromise on the utilities holding company bill was expressed by President Roosevelt today in a letter to Chairman Rayburn of the house commerce committee.

The letter was made public as leaders discussed the method by which the compromise drafted by Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) to end the dispute over mandatory abolition of holding companies called "unnecessary" would be brought before the house.

It said:

"My Dear Mr. Rayburn:

"I have seen a copy of the proposed substitute for sub-section B of section eleven of the public utility holding company bill offered by the senate conferees as a compromise of the difference between the house and senate bills on the subject matter of such sub-section B.

"Generous Concession."

"From the point of view of the house, this proposal certainly constitutes a most generous concession on the part of the senate conferees.

"Very sincerely,

"Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The proposed compromise would eliminate the senate requirement that holding companies considered "unnecessary" be dissolved by 1942.

It would direct the securities commission to reduce all holding companies to "single integrated" systems with a few exceptions.

Congress Fought Up.

Congress was all tangled up in such formidable difficulties today that guesses as to the adjournment date ranged as far ahead as next Wednesday.

Some legislators, however, insisted that congress might quit tomorrow. Still others feared that house members, if they got a chance to vote on the $250,000,000 tax bill quickly, would drop all else and head for home, thus forcing an impromptu adjournment.

Administration leaders continued to seek speedy action on their program. Under limited debate, the senate forged ahead for a quick debate today on the Guffey bituminous coal control bill, center of so much argument about constitutional issues.

A heap of legislation the president wants still awaits action. Near the top is the $250,000,000 tax bill. There was some talk of bringing up today in the house a conference agreement in which senate and house differences over the bill are compromised.

Shun Quick Vote.

However, some legislators were concerned about taking a vote on this measure "too soon" lest many congressmen should ignore all other legislation and go home.

The amendments to broaden and strengthen Tennessee Valley Authority were on the president's desk today, because the house completed action on them yesterday.

Among bills still facing difficulties are the Walsh measure to impose NRA standards on firms contracting with the government, the liquor control, gold suit prohibition and railroad pension tax measures and the Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium.

Miss Mildred Entorf recently found this interesting article in a magazine. It pertains to the origin of the poem "The House by The Side of The Road."

A poet was walking along a dusty road in the heat of summer when he came to an inviting bench under an overhanging shade tree. He paused, and as he rested, he noticed near by a basket of early red apples, and on the basket a crudely lettered sign, "Have an apple."

He took an apple and as he ate it he noticed another sign by a little path, "Down this path is a spring." He followed the path and was rewarded by a refreshing drink.

Then he looked about to discover to whom he was indebted for these several favors. Some distance away he discovered a humble house, and as he looked saw an old man coming down the path. Questioned by the wayfarer, the old man explained half-apologetically, "Well, you see, a good many people come walking down the road and it occurred to us that the old bench, which we were not using, would be appreciated by the weary as a place to rest. Then we had the apples and we thought some might enjoy them. And the spring, you know is a little hidden so we put up the sign lest some thirsty soul might miss it."

The traveler thoughtfully bade his friend adieu, but as he walked and pondered, there was born in his soul the now familiar lines:

"I would live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by.
The men who are good, the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.

I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Nor hurl the cynic's ban,
I would live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man."

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Text: Acts 4:36, 37; 11:19-30
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 25.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of Advance

We study Barnabas as a "consecrated man of means." If the word were not so seriously abused and productive of misleading associations, we should call Barnabas an early Christian "communist." That was really what he was in his early experience with the church when, we are told, the Christians had all things in common.

If all people in the world were Christians, and all Christians were of the character and quality of Barnabas, communism would be an ideal organization of society, but we can never have the sort of communism that Barnabas practiced without the Barnabas sort of faith and character.

There is not a great deal concerning him in Scripture, and yet he stands as an outstandingly great character of the whole Bible.

There is evidence that many converts to early Christianity were poor. The poverty of the Christians in the home church at Jerusalem was so great that Paul took up a collection for them in churches that were established in other parts of Asia and in Europe.

But not all these early Christians were poor or people of humble position. Later, in the church at Rome, we are told there were saints in Caesar's household, and here in the very beginning of the Christian church there were men like Barnabas who had property.

We are not told just how extensive Barnabas' property may have been. Otherwise the record is specific. He had a field, and he sold it, and he brought the money and laid it at the apostle's feet, that it might be used for the entire Christian community.

It may be remembered that Paul took Barnabas as his early missionary companion, though we may recall also that the two fine men had a dispute which they could not, apparently, adjust and which led to their separation. The dispute was about John Mark, author of the second Gospel, the nephew of Barnabas, whom Paul did not wish to take with them again because he considered that John Mark had left them under circumstances not to his credit.

The character and the acts of Barnabas are in distinct contrast with those of Ananias and Sapphira, who professed to do the same thing as Barnabas, but who withheld the actual price of what had been sold.

We ought to grasp quite clearly the plain teaching here. The sin of Ananias and Sapphira was in misrepresenting the matter and not in their unwillingness to give the entire price of what they had sold.

The ideal thing in the Christian life is the full surrender of one's life and possessions to the service of God and man. But different individuals must determine what that means in their own lives.

If we would be truly Christian we must take such a man as expressing a great ideal, and we must in our own way, with will and courage, determine how we can put that ideal into practice. Possibly more men, if they had the will and spirit, could manifest the death of their faith by following with literalness the example of Barnabas.

ROOSEVELT AID CALLED UTILITY STOCK PLUNGER

House Cheers Attack on Corcoran, Lobbyist
for the President

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—The house staged a wild demonstration of approval when Thomas G. Corcoran, White House lobbyist for the public utility control bill, was assailed on the floor by Representative Samuel B. Pettengill, Indiana Democrat.

Corcoran has been under fire before on charges of intimidating congressmen. Pettengill challenged the house lobby committee to summon Corcoran again and question him about his reported dealing in utility issues on the New York Stock Exchange market at the same time he labored for legislation against utilities at Washington.

Resents Corcoran Tactics

It was the boldest and most direct attack against administration lobbying at this session. The house expressed its resentment of the tactics of Corcoran, and those of other representatives of President Roosevelt, by giving Pettengill an ovation which lasted several minutes.

The Indiana representative thus brought out into the open the rumors, whispered about the capitol, that administration lobbyists were profiting secretly by stock market deals in securities affected by legislation for which they were carrying tremendous efforts.

Recall Former Admissions

Corcoran once admitted to a committee that he had been a stock market plunger and had made and lost a small fortune.

"In view of this admission," Pettengill told the house, "the rules committee, investigating lobbying, should summon Corcoran and question him as to whether he is now in the market with reference to utility stock."

Until evidence in "black and white" has been presented, Chairman John J. O'Connor of the house rules committee, indicated, he will not summon Corcoran. That hot tempered, red headed chairman is reported to have told friends that, despite his personal antipathy to the administration, he will not summon any witnesses nor conduct any investigation which might throw discredit on the administration unless forced to do so by the presentation of specific evidence.

Recalls Maine Dam Threats

Pettengill frequently referred to Corcoran as "the ambassador from Passamaquoddy." He referred to Corcoran's threats to Representative Ralph O. Brewster (Rep. Me.) several months ago to stop construction on the Passamaquoddy dam in Maine if Brewster voted against the bill and construction on the dam has been delayed since then.

The utilities control bill still is in conference between the two houses, with practically no prospects of a compromise being reached before adjournment. Its clause on holding companies was a major point of attack.

A bit of cunning maneuvering by Corcoran last week led to the outbreak. Last Thursday Representative Otha D. Wearin (Dem. Ia.) arose and asked to insert in the Congressional Record a speech by his colleague, Edward C. Eicher (Dem. Ia.), who was ill. The request was granted. The speech was not read to the house. No one noted its contents until Corcoran Godde, son of a noted French silk magnate. himself called attention to it when speaking to reporters.

Corcoran Appears Pleased

"That speech is going to be widely circulated," Corcoran remarked. He is also said to have chuckled over the manner in which the speech was inserted.

That speech contained an attack on Representatives Pettengill and George Huddleston, Alabama Democrats. They were the leading Democratic foes of the utility bill. The Eicher speech asserted that the dilatory tactics of Pettengill and Huddleston had aided the "lobby army of the utilities."

NEWS of the CHURCHES

GOSPEL TENT NEWS

Miss Dorothy L. Kunzman, young California evangelist who has just returned to Dixon, last night presented the first of a series of sermons at her opening service in the Dixon Gospel Tent, First and Van Buren streets.

A large audience which filled the tent gave the youthful revivalist an enthusiastic welcome and joined in heartily as she led them in the singing of old and familiar Gospel songs.

Miss Kunzman chose as the basis for her message the Parable of the Great Supper as recorded in the 14th chapter of St. Luke's Gospel, and emphasized as her text the words: "Come; for all things are now ready." She declared that "down through the centuries this one word 'Come' has continuously presented God's unfailing attitude toward the human race and men as a whole." Particular stress was laid upon the fact that the invitation has been generalized by God to include "whoever will" and that a new Gospel is not needed for 1935.

The evangelist further remarked that: "down underneath the veneer of modern civilization and manner of living, men at heart are much the same; they know the same temptations and fears and heart-hunger after God as did their forefathers and the men of Bible days, and because man is a spiritual being he is never completely satisfied until he partakes of the provisions God has made for men in the Gospel through Jesus Christ."

The meetings will continue through the 30th of August with Miss Kunzman preaching each night, except Monday, at 7:45.

BAPTIST REVIVAL.

"Why I Believe There Is a Hell" and "What the Bible Says About Heaven." These subjects will be discussed by Rev. Beaman at the First Baptist church in the two remaining nights of the meeting. Come and listen whether you agree or not; it is always wise to discuss eternal matters. Where will you spend eternity?

Services daily at 10:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Keith Taber is still leading the Young People's Open Forum at 6:45 p. m., and the attendance an interest are multiplying. If you have a question or opinion on how young people should live, you will be heard gladly. Evangelist Beaman announced a question box. Write out your question, and he will give you a thus saith the Lord each evening.

The speaker talked for five minutes on "What Baptists Believe on the Lord's Supper." He said that all denominations believed that Baptism came before the Supper. Hence Baptists are not Close Communions in the strictest sense but close on baptism. The difference is on what constitutes baptism. They believe no one has a right to the supper who has not been scripturally baptized. Baptists believe that the Supper of our Lord is emblematic and pictorial and does not impart grace. Baptists believe that the supper is a church ordinance as well as a Christian ordinance. After this George Jephson of Freeport rendered "Face to Face With Christ" on the trombone with piano accompaniment.

The evangelist spoke on a fourth of the words of Jesus from the cross. "It is finished." This is "Christ's Word of Victory." The Greeks' boast of a sea of matter in a drop of language is found here in original. In the original this is all one word. On the cross Christ was both victim and victor. The cross pictures tragedy and triumph and voices desolation and jubilation. The cross is the wonder of angels, the marvel of men, and the delight of God. This was no cry of a helpless martyr but a triumphant victor. What was finished? In one word, redemption was purchased. He met the demands of the law in His sinless life and paid the penalty in full in His death. He destroyed the power of Satan, though the sentence is not fully executed. He made an end of sins for all who will trust Jesus. The work of atonement was finished; the sin debt was paid. Salvation as a complete purchase is now offered free to all. Everything that it takes to save has been done. Now the sinner has only to look to the finished work of the cross. Proofs of this are abundant. The rending of the veil of the temple, the resurrection of Jesus and His ascension, the sending of the Holy Spirit and the salvation of countless multitudes who believed on Jesus only evince the truth and power of His cry of victory. How sweet the relief to know that Jesus finished redemption for all who believe. Amidst our countless imperfections and sins there is shelter indeed in His finished work on the cross. How dangerous and insolent to add anything to what He did for us! Our puny efforts to save ourselves reflect on His work. If He did not do enough to save us, how can we? Accept what He has done for you and then live for Him who died for you.

WITHOUT A SHOT BEING FIRED—

To all intents peace reigns between Ethiopia and Italy, but already Ethiopia's allies are attacking the Blackshirt forces in East Africa. The heat, disease, insects, rain have invalidated home more than 5000 of the expeditionary force, according to some reports. Although not a shot has yet been fired in the struggle, here you see Italian soldiers carrying a comrade on a stretcher at a field hospital station.

Sterling Youth Slain in Quincy; Two Quizzed

Quincy, Ill.—Police held two men for investigation in the death of Frederick Gildon, 17, found in the railroad yards here Monday. The youth's father, C. F. Gildon, Sr., of Sterling, who came here to claim the body, expressed the belief his son was slain elsewhere and the body taken to the railroad yards.

A striking example of what education does to decrease crime is shown in a survey of Illinois prisons. The figures show that less than 1 per cent of the inmates are high school graduates.

CARMODY RE-ELECTED

New York, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Martin H. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Mich., was re-elected Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus at the thirty-third annual convention of the organization Wednesday.

This will be Carmody's fifth term as Supreme Knight. He serves for two years.

SHOWS A PROFIT.

Chicago.—A profit of $23,163, before depreciation, was reported for Zion Institutions & Industries, Inc., for the first six months of 1935 by Fred E. Hummel, trustee. The corporation, once controlled by Wilbur Glenn Voliva, Zion religious leader, recently was reorganized.

Ethiopian Royalty 'at Home' to German Envoy

In a peaceful, dignified scene which carries no hint of imminence of war with Italy, and yet strongly hints at Germany's sympathy with Ethiopia in event of strife, the royal family of Ethiopia is pictured above at the royal palace in Addis Ababa during a reception given for Herr Kirchholtes, German ambassador, and his wife. In the group above are, left to right, seated, Frau Kirchholtes, Empress Etge Manen, Emperor Haile Selassie and, at extreme right, the German envoy. Between Frau Kirchholtes and the empress is Mrs. Hertel, only white lady-in-waiting at the Ethiopian court; at her left, Princess Jahai; and in the background, at left, other guests.

Grill Aged Mooney 'Key Witness'

Despite severe grilling by William F. Cleary, deputy attorney general for California, with whom he is shown above, John MacDonald, 63, paralytic in Baltimore city hospital, insisted that his testimony in 1916, which sent Thomas J. Mooney to prison for the Preparedness Day bombing in which 19 people died, was false. Though an abject figure, MacDonald stoutly maintained, before a California supreme court referee and Mooney's attorneys, that he had not seen Mooney until after the bombing and that California officials "coached" him in his original story.

What's Meaning of This Smile?

Herbert Hoover is rapidly becoming the sphinx of American politics. With rumors as to his 1936 intentions running into each other many are trying to read the meaning of the cryptic smile that Hoover reveals in this, his most recent photo.

Camouflage? No, Just Dog Spots

Like a weird dream of a camouflage artist, Chang-Lee appears here, standing on his hind legs in one of the tricks of his extensive repertoire. But those spots weren't painted on Chang-Lee. They just grew on this novelty hairless canine from far-off Indo-China, making a friendly call in this country.

WALNUT TEAM IS WINNER PULLING EVENTS AT FAIR

Charles Lett's Percheron Geldings Retain State Honors

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The distribution of honors among stock raisers, 4-H club members, homemakers and others continued today as the Illinois state fair entered its final four days.

The Princess of Huntington, a jet black Cocker spaniel belonging to C. A. Backus of Huntington, Ind., was declared the best of the 311 dogs entered in the Illinois Kennel Club's show, held in connection with the fair.

Invasion, a heavy harness horse belonging to Mrs. Loula Long Combs of Lees Summit, Mo., won the grand championship of the horse show last night with Captivation, belonging to the same stable, taking the reserve championship.

Walnut Geldings Win
A team of gray Percheron geldings belonging to Charles N. Lett of Walnut, Ill., was awarded first place in the heavyweight division of the horse and mule pulling contest. They lifted a load of 3,200 pounds twenty-seven and one-half feet to retain the title they won last year.

Mary Louise Sunderland and Marjorie Chapple of Delphi, Jersey county, competing under 4-H club auspices, won the state championship from 38 other contestants by taking 20 minutes to turn out a pan of yeast rolls. Second place in the same contest went to Lorena Freer and Estaline Blaire of Green county who demonstrated unusual use for dairy products.

Won Dress Revue
Martha Finley, 15, Lawrenceville, won one of the 4-H clubs' most coveted prizes when she was awarded the state championship in the dress revue over 82 other club members.

The outfits, made by the contestants, included those for house, school, church and party. The winners were awarded the championship.

DIXON ELKS TO HAVE CLAM BAKE MONDAY, SEPT. 2

Annual Outing Will Be Staged at Smith Farm in Palmyra

Dixon lodge, No. 779, B. P. O. Elks are sponsoring their 24th annual clam bake and outing on Labor Day, the event to be held on the George W. Smith farm west of Dixon in Palmyra township. The plans call for a return to the clam bakes of the pre-prohibition era which were attended by Elks and their friends from all sections of northwest Illinois. The route to the site will be marked with arrows from the Lincoln Highway west of Dixon.

The committee in charge has arranged a complete program for the entire day. A softball game will be one of the features, while the old time horse shoe pitchers will find plenty of opposition. It is planned to have a soft ball team from Mendota lodge of Elks oppose the Dixon club stars. Delegations from the several lodges in this district will be present. The regular long list of food will be supplied the Elks and their friends attending together with an ample program of entertainment throughout the afternoon. This will be the principal activity in the vicinity of Dixon on Labor Day and a record crowd is expected. The picnic will be a stag affair for Elks and their friends.

"I'd like to talk to you about a number of things," Lolita told Jo. "But I've plenty on the schedule today. And I'll talk to you later about that sandwich shop." She reached into her bag and drew forth a letter. "Here . . . I just dropped by to deliver this. I never dreamed I'd be cast in the role of Cupid!"

Jo took the letter and glanced at the handwriting. It was from Bret, and addressed to Jo "in care of Miss Lolita Montez, Atlas Pictures Corporation, Hollywood."

"Thanks so much," Jo said. "I'm afraid I'm being a terrible nuisance to you."

"Forget it," the actress advised lightly. "Have to run now . . . I'll see you later."

The moment she had said good-bye to Lolita, Jo turned back into her room and shut the door. Then she glanced again at the familiar, sprawling handwriting of Bret Paul—the handwriting she remembered so well on notes and themes and book covers, from their days together at the University. She had thrilled once over those heavy, masculine pen-strokes, but now she was curiously calm about them.

She opened the letter and read: "Dear Jo—I don't know whether this will reach you, but I'm taking the chance and sending it in care of Lolita Montez at the Atlas studio. I haven't any idea why you left Great Lakes—whether it was because you are in love with Fragonet or for some other reason. But Tubby wrote me that you didn't know until months later that it was I who yanked you out of the lake that day. It wasn't much of a stunt, I'll admit, but it did hurt a little when you never mentioned it. But now I know why."

"I'm leaving here soon, for Marsh is talking about closing the place for the season. I hear that he and Babs are to be married, and perhaps that's the reason for all the rush to close. But I don't mind, for I've made more money here than I would have at Placid Beach."

"Why shouldn't I come to Hollywood, Jo? Remember the two weeks we planned for Placid Beach? Why couldn't we spend them together in Hollywood?"

She remembered a letter-box at the corner. Jo took the two missives immediately and dropped them into the clattering green slot. Returning to the little stucco bungalow she saw Drann's roadster draw alongside the curb. The director hopped out rather breathlessly and raised his hat.

"I've some news for you, Miss Drann," he told her. "Surely not about the screen test?" Jo's voice was carefully cool.

He nodded vigorously. "Yes . . . about the test. It's an excellent one."

"I'm glad you think so," Jo said, quietly incredulous.

"Not only do I think so," Drann assured her, "but Boleson saw it, too—and he is tremendously excited about your possibilities."

"Boleson?" repeated Jo. "The chief," Drann assured her. "And several of the production heads had a look at it, too."

Despite her resolve to keep her hopes in hand, Jo felt her blood warming with triumph. Then Lolita had been wrong in her suspicions!

Boleson will want to see another one," Drann went on. "He's definitely interested and you are sure of a minor contract in any event. But I want you to have a test taken which displays a little more versatility. I'll get you some real dialogue to speak with another person." He stopped, gave her that disturbing smile of his. "You see, I want you to go over big, Jo Drann!"

Jo was eluding herself for her doubt. "I—how can I thank you enough?"

"Thank me?" said Drann. "You will repay me a hundredfold when you have become a great star." He reached out for the door of his car. "I am late already at the studio—but I had to tell you in person about this. And," his voice lowered, "one word of caution. It isn't wise to say much about these matters until the contract is signed and sealed." He smiled confidentially. "The jealousies of Hollywood, you know!"

Jo nodded, watching the big roadster move away and into the traffic. For a moment or two she was rooted to the pavement, her mind torn with conflicting thoughts. It couldn't be true—it couldn't be so easy. And yet . . . Drann had said it was true; he had shown the test film to Boleson and the production chiefs, and they hadn't turned thumbs down.

Drann had said she should tell no one, but Jo knew she should tell Lolita into the secret. There could be no possible harm in letting the actress know, and Jo felt she owed it to Montez for all her kindness. Besides, there was the possible chance Drann was not telling the truth. Perhaps, Jo cautioned herself, that was why he suggested secrecy.

But before the morning was much older Jo received a telephone call from the Atlas studio. A woman's voice, carefully modulated, said, "This is Mr. Boleson's office at Atlas. . . . Is this Miss Drann?"

"Yes," Jo's voice was trembling. "One moment, please. Mr. Boleson wishes to talk with you."

Jo wondered if she would be able to speak at all when Boleson took the wire. In a panic, she was tempted to test her voice; then suddenly she heard a deep masculine, "Miss Jo Drann?"

"Yes."

"Miss Drann, I am very anxious to talk with you. Could you possibly come to my office at 3 this afternoon?"

"Good! At 3, then. It's very kind of you, Miss Drann. Good-bye."

SUN-TAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JO DARREN breaks her engagement to BRETT PAUL, college athletic star, because he objects to her taking a job as hostess at Great Lakes Inn, fashionable summer resort owned by wealthy DOUGLAS MARSH. Jo goes to Great Lakes and later Bret arrives as life guard.

Douglas Marah's eccentric mother, dislikes Jo. FRED FRAGONET, film actor, pays Jo marked attentions and asks her to marry him as soon as he can get a divorce. Jo becomes friendly with LOLA MONTEZ, film actress.

Prompted by his mother, Marah decides to go to Hollywood to look for a job, and flies there with Fragonet. Later she begins to doubt Fragonet's promises and moves to a rooming house where he cannot find her. Lola Montez offers to help Jo find a job. SILAS DRANN, the director, asks Jo to come to the studio for a screen test, she goes. When Lola hears of this she warns Jo not to rely on Drann's promises.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XL

NEXT morning Lolita appeared bright and early, stopping on her way to the studio. But she had to decline Jo's invitation to come into the upstairs room and finish their discussion of Drann and his screen test.

"I'd like to talk to you about a number of things," Lolita told Jo. "But I've plenty on the schedule today. And I'll talk to you later about that sandwich shop." She reached into her bag and drew forth a letter. "Here . . . I just dropped by to deliver this. I never dreamed I'd be cast in the role of Cupid!"

You see, I can't believe you'll really go for Fragonet. And I still love you Jo. I suppose I always will—Bret."

Below his signature was a hasty postscript which made Jo smile. "When Drann was here he told me I ought to get something in the studios in Hollywood."

She found that postscript more than amusing. It was so filled with masculine ego; and when compared with the rest of the letter it was so irrelevantly concerned with Bret Paul in Hollywood—and not Jo Drann. Slowly Jo read the letter again, trying to determine what there was about it that alienated her. The words were right, but something was gone—something that should have been there if he really loved her as he said. "Why shouldn't I come to Hollywood, Jo? Remember the two weeks we planned for Placid Beach? There was something odd and calculating, something almost repulsive to Jo in those two short questions."

But she put the letter carefully into the top drawer of the bureau, telling herself that, after all, she had given Bret little cause to write a revealing letter. And he had never been romantic with words ("Like Fragonet," she thought). Perhaps she had no right to doubt this one letter which had reached her in Hollywood.

About all Bret's letter did was to remind Jo again, this time with effect, that she must write her parents. She sat down now and wrote the long overdue letter, being rather vague about why and how she had left Great Lakes, and fibbing a little about her prospects in the City of Cinemas. It was not until she had finished this letter that she framed a note to Bret. The answer was more difficult than she'd imagined. She tore up five or six beginnings which had led her into saying things she did not really want to say. At last she wrote only half a dozen lines. They were lines telling him that she appreciated his kindness and his interest, but saying nothing about his professed love and suggesting gently that there was no need for him to come to Hollywood on her account.

"I really don't know whether I'll stay here much longer," she wrote, "so perhaps it will have to be some summer at Placid Beach, after all—if it's going to be anywhere."

She was thinking of Dila Saunders when she wrote that last—a brightly blond Dila Saunders in the arms of a too eager Bret Paul. Hurdled Jo folded the note paper into its envelope, dampened the flap and sealed the answer with a definitely punctuating blow from her small fist.

Remembering a letter-box at the corner, Jo took the two missives immediately and dropped them into the clattering green slot. Returning to the little stucco bungalow she saw Drann's roadster draw alongside the curb. The director hopped out rather breathlessly and raised his hat.

"I've some news for you, Miss Drann," he told her. "Surely not about the screen test?" Jo's voice was carefully cool.

He nodded vigorously. "Yes . . . about the test. It's an excellent one."

"I'm glad you think so," Jo said, quietly incredulous.

"Not only do I think so," Drann assured her, "but Boleson saw it, too—and he is tremendously excited about your possibilities."

"Boleson?" repeated Jo. "The chief," Drann assured her. "And several of the production heads had a look at it, too."

ILLINOIS TOWNS URGED TO PASS UNIFORM LAWS

Identical Traffic Regulations Would Promote Safety

Enactment of ordinances by cities and villages in Illinois as a means of removing the chaos by passage of the new state vehicle code was suggested today by R. H. Bailey, Chairman of the Police Committee of the Suburban Area and Country Towns Association, in an open letter to the Mayors of all Illinois municipalities. The legislature, in passing the new code, through the simple expedient of making jail sentences, in addition to fines, possibilities for punishment, automatically divested justices of the peace and police magistrates of final jurisdiction in cases filed under the state law for minor traffic violations.

"Since speeders and reckless drivers must now post bond and be bound over to the grand jury," Mr. Bailey said in his letter, "the net result is likely to be an absence of prosecutions except in the most aggravated cases and a general lessening in the pressure to promote careful driving."

"This condition can be materially improved by cities and villages taking advantage of their right to regulate traffic on their streets by ordinance. So long as the provisions of the ordinance are not inconsistent with the state law they are valid, according to our advice. Oak Park and many other cities have shown the way by adopting ordinances containing the same rules as those laid down by the state law. When the violations are committed within the limits of the city, arrests can be made by any police officer, charges can be filed under the ordinance and the cases handled by justices of the peace or police magistrates within the city to immediate and final conclusion."

Suggested Law
Mr. Bailey enclosed to the Mayors a copy of a suggested ordinance to accomplish the purpose.

"The only respect in which our ordinance varies from the state law," he said, "is that the punishment is by fine only and not jail sentence, thus leaving the cases in the preliminary courts where they belong. In addition the fines from these violations go into the city treasury. There is ample justification in the case of overloading trucks. The fines, once in the city treasury, can be used to repair the streets, damaged by such overloaded vehicles."

"Although there is talk changing the state law, it may take a long time to accomplish this, and in the meantime much damage and loss of life may occur. The remedy we suggest is immediate, as the ordinance can be passed at once. Under this plan not only city officers, but also the state police, can arrest violators, file their charges under the ordinance and handle their cases to prompt conclusion for their own convenience and that of the offending motorist. If charges are filed under the state law the already crowded condition of the courts, and the abnormal costs and ex-

UNCROWNED RULER HUNGARY

FROM the 800-room palace at Budapest, where once lived proud Hapsburg royalty, Admiral Nicholas Horthy extends his regency over a humbled but hopeful Hungary. The kingdom still exists by law, but no crown rests on the head of its leader. Instead, Admiral Horthy has been endeavoring to unify and reconstruct his country, while his people show a growing sympathy toward the exiled Hapsburgs.

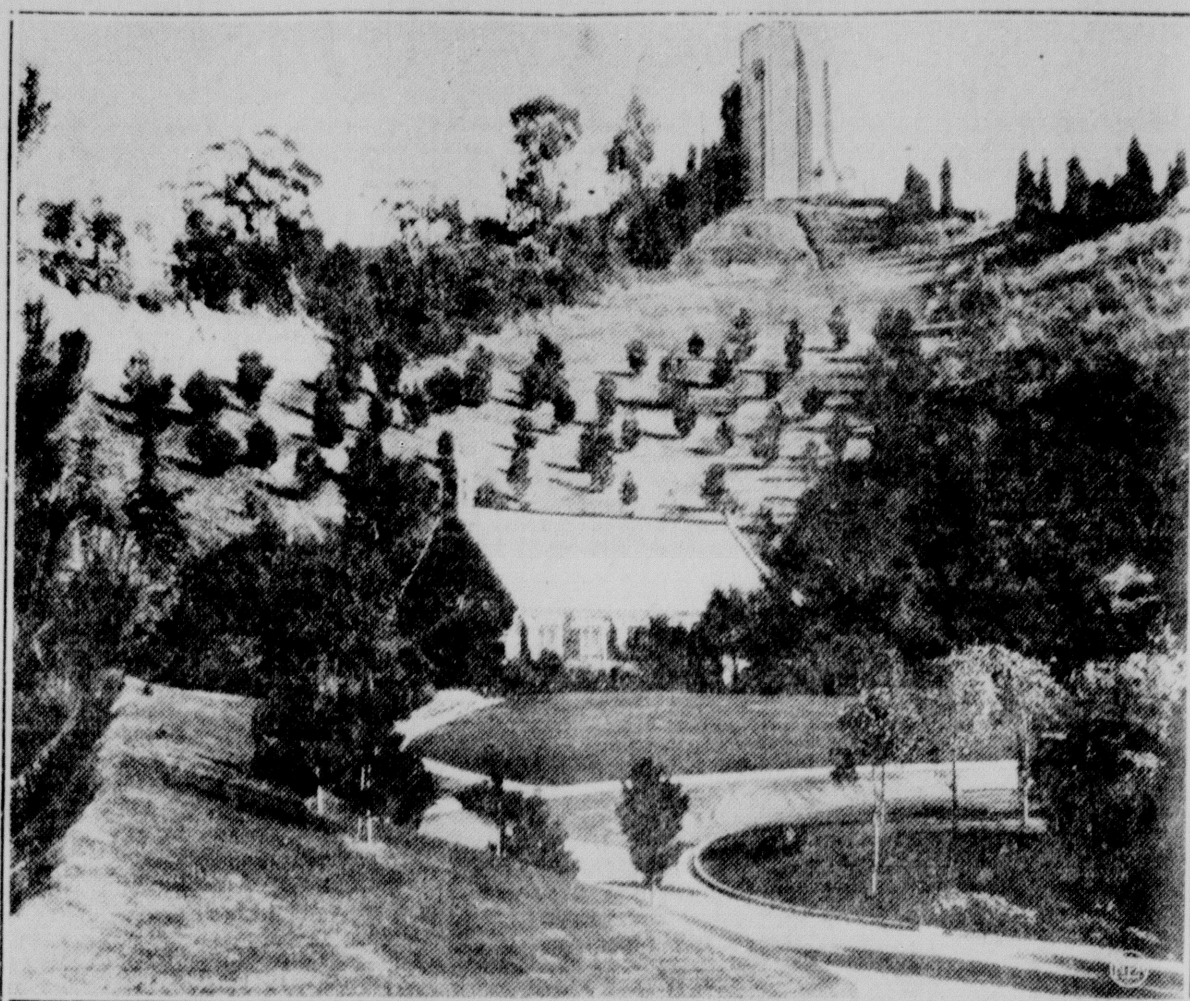

Admiral Horthy, who had distinguished himself by valorous service during the war, became regent in 1920, when the short Bolshevik government of Bela Kun was forced out and Rumania withdrew its forces from Budapest. Under Horthy's leadership, and with the aid of such men as Count Bethlen and those who followed him, Hungary has grown in national prestige.

In 1930, Hungary celebrated the 10th anniversary of Horthy's regency, and at that time issued the commemorative stamp shown here.

Where Hollywood Will Pay Actor Last Tribute

In this little church, picturesque Wee Kirk o' the Heather, nestled in Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, Calif., nearest of kin and intimate friends will bid their last farewells to Will Rogers. Following the services, the body of the noted cowboy-comedian temporarily will be laid in a receiving vault, later to be interred in his native Oklahoma. It was in Wee Kirk o' the Heather that final services were held for Rogers' "discoverer," Flo Ziegfeld, and for Marie Dressler, Lon Chaney, Wallace Reid and other stage and screen celebrities.

pense in most cases, makes the punishment out of all proportion to the gravity of the offense.

"Where the offense is really serious and the offender deserves a jail sentence the case can be filed under the state law just the same, as the ordinance programme is only supplemental to the state code."

RAID LASALLE STILL
LaSalle, Ill., Aug. 22—(AP)—Federal agents, raiding the farm of Rudolph Doll, three miles north of this city discovered a huge moonshine distilling plant, built into a hillside and camouflaged with trees and brush, the plant was entirely hidden from view. The agents arrested Doll and Alfonso Managlia, 38, of Standard, who charged was employed as a cooker in the distillery.

Highwaymen Attack Woman in Holdup
Carmi, Ill., Aug. 22—(AP)—Police today sought two highway bandits who criminally attacked Mrs. Francis Hall of Carmi, near here and then robbed her husband after crowding their car off the highway.

Following the attack and robbery, police said the bandits escaped in the Hall automobile leaving the car behind after wrecking the ignition system and shooting holes in the tires.

Mrs. Hall who is 23-year-old is under the care of a physician.

The Halls, socially prominent here, were taking a pleasure ride with their children when accosted by the bandits.

Hall is the nephew of T. W. Hall, Carmi banker and state representative from the 48th district.

DAILY HEALTH

UNDULANT FEVER

With the discovery of the bacterial cause of undulant fever—so called because it is extended, with periods of improvement and relapse—there also was developed a laboratory technique for its diagnosis. As a result it was found that, far from being confined to the island of Malta, undulant fever is world-wide in its spread. The disease has been found in France, Spain, Italy, Egypt, Tripoli, Algeria, India, China, the Philippines, Mexico and the United States.

We do not know exactly how widespread the disease is, but undoubtedly the cases are more numerous than are reported.

This is due in part to the absence of definite and unmistakable symptoms, which also adds to the difficulty of treatment.

The disease fortunately has a very low mortality, estimated to be not greater than 3 to 4 per cent. But undulant fever is a debilitating disease, long in duration, and severe in its attacks.

The disease, as may be gathered from its name, is "undulant"—that is, a fever long drawn out, which periodically gets better and worse. There are no skin eruptions characteristic of the condition. Rheumatic and neuralgia-like pains are frequently suffered.

The temperature runs fairly high, sometimes reaching 105 or 106 degrees. It may decline for an indefinite period and then rather suddenly and without apparent cause it may rise again.

There is as yet no effective specific form of treatment for the disease. Prevention is the best safeguard, and for the population in general, the best present-day protection is not to drink milk which has not been pasteurized.

Persons whose work brings them into contact with cattle, goats, sheep, horses or pigs must take special precautions against infection by direct contact with diseased animals.

Scrupulous cleanliness is imperative under such circumstances.

Unexpected Upward Swing in Steel Out- put is Day's Report

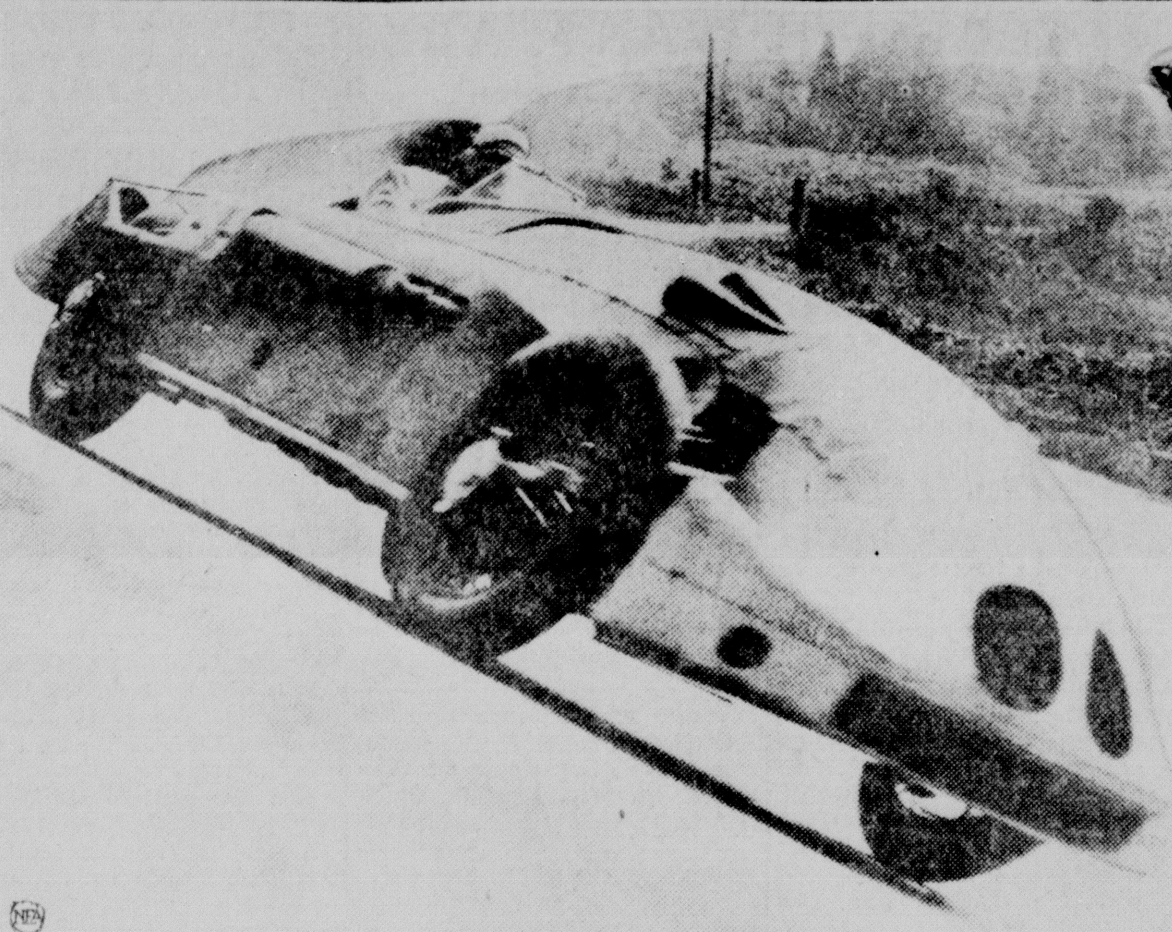

New York, Aug. 22—(AP)—Reporting a further rise in steel operations, Iron Age said today that the current movement "is one of the most unexpected upward swings in the history of the industry."

The rate of ingot production has advanced 50 1/2 per cent of capacity as compared with 49 per cent last week, according to the publication's calculation. A similar trend is evident in steel scrap prices, and the Iron Age composite for heavy melting was raised from $12.08 to $12.50 a ton, making the highest level since the third week in April, 1934. The increase in mill schedules is the seventh in consecutive order since early in July.

APPROPRIATIONS LAPSE.
Springfield, Ill.—Announcement that $77,887,968 in appropriations for the last biennial period will be permitted to lapse Sept. 30 was made by K. L. Ames, Jr., state director of finance. Ames said the amount saved from the appropriations made by the 58th general assembly was 36.3 per cent of the total. He said $57,167,127 saved was in the highway construction fund; $15,529,778 in motor fuel tax distribution and $5,000,000 in other items.
